Israel puts Gaza under 'complete siege'

AGENCIES

A day after officially declaring war on the Islamist militant group Hamas, Israel on Monday ordered a "complete siege" of Hamas-controlled Gaza Strip by cutting off food, fuel, electricity, and water supplies to the densely populated area.

Gaza depends on Israel for much of its basic supplies. The 43-km long, 10-km wide narrow strip wedged between Israel and Egypt on the Mediterranean Sea is home to 2.3 million people, half of them below the age of 20.

"I have given an order — Gaza will be under complete siege," Israel's defence minister Yoav Gallant said, adding: "There will be no electricity, food or fuel. We are fighting barbaric terrorists and will respond accordingly."

As the fight entered the third day, the toll from both sides soared to over 1,200 with more than 700 people reported killed in Israel and 500 in Gaza. Israel's body count includes 260 people who were attending a music festival when they were massacred by militants.

Several foreigners were also killed in the Hamas attack on Israel. Nepal's foreign ministry said on Monday that 10 Nepali students were killed and four others injured. The US state department said nine Americans were confirmed dead and some are missing. France said two of its citizens were killed. BBC reported that more than 10 British nationals are feared dead or missing in Israel. Thailand, Mexico, and Ukraine lost two citizens each. Many foreigners, including US citizens, are reportedly among those held hostage by Hamas militants.

An Indian citizen, Sheeja Anand of Kerala's Kannur, was injured in a rocket attack in an airstrike in Ashkelon but is out of danger.

News agency Reuters reported that Qatari mediators are in touch with Hamas officials for the release of Israeli women and children seized by the militant group and held in Gaza in exchange for the release of 36 Palestinian women and children from Israel's prisons. However, Israeli officials have denied the report.

The war is set to intensify in coming days with Israel pressing ahead with its offensive. In an unprecedented move, as many as 3 lakh Israeli army reservists have been called up to fight Hamas. According to the UN, 1.23 lakh people have fled their homes in Gaza ahead of imminent bombardment.

Meanwhile, the United Arab Emirates and Bahrain condemned the abduction of civilians by Hamas during its assault on Israel. The two Arab nations called for diplomatic means to end the conflict. P12

"I do not want to leave Israel now. I want to help the Israelis in this hour of crisis,'' said Prameela Prabhu, 41, from Herga in Udupi district, who has been working as a nurse in Tel Aviv-Yafo for the past six years.

Prameela is among the many Indians stranded there after Hamas launched an attack on Israel. "Around 8.30 pm on October 7, I had to rush to the bunker in the basement of my apartment complex as sirens started blaring after Hamas attacked Israel. Since then, I have moved to the bunker thrice. I never witnessed violence of this scale and enormity. I live in Tel Aviv-Yafo, which has not been affected much unlike other cities and towns in Israel. But there were bombings on Saturday, just about 1 km away from my place. Every house, commercial and government establishments here have bunkers and one can find them in public places as well," she told TNIE over the phone.

Soon after the siren, there will be bombings in about 20 seconds and we have to get into the bunkers. People are forced to remain indoors now, she said. CONTINUED ON: P4

Nov 7-30 semifinal in 5 states to set tone for 2024's LS dash

Poll panel announces schedule; single phase in 4 states, 2 phases in Ch'garh

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@New Delhi

WITH the poll panel announcing the election dates on Monday (see graphic), battle lines have been drawn for the high-stakes contest in five states, which is being seen as the semifinal bout before the 2024 general elections. Its results will be an indicator to the big battle ahead for the ruling BJP and the Opposition's INDIA alliance.

While the Congress governments in Rajasthan and Chhattisgarh are looking to retain power, the Congress is locked in a bitter fight with the BJP in Madhya Pradesh. Telangana has a three-way contest as the Congress and the BJP are pitted against the K Chandrashekar Rao-led Bharat Rashtra Samithi government. In Mizoram, NDA ally Mizo National Front is in power.

Despite its track record of replacing incumbents, Rajasthan hasn't yet indicated which way it will swing. While the BJP is banking on anti-incumbency, the grand old party is pinning its hopes on the welfare schemes of CM Ashok Gehlot.

While the BJP has sidelined its two-time CM Vasundhara Raje, it is crippled with several CM aspirants such as Union ministers Gajendra Shekhawat and Arjun Meghwal. In contrast, the Congress campaign is focused on Gehlot. However, all eyes are on how the feud between Gehlot and his former deputy Sachin Pilot will now play out, especially in East Rajasthan where Gujjar votes are crucial. The two-phase polling in Chhattisgarh will see a direct fight between ruling Congress and BJP in the largely bipolar politics of the state. Though surveys have indicated CM Bhupesh Baghel will retain power, BJP is hopeful that the alleged scams and corruption cases against the government would work in its favour.

The contest between the ruling BJP and the Congress in MP may be the most keenly watched. The BJP is eyeing to buck anti-incumbency, particularly by banking on women voters, who constitute 48.5%, through populist schemes and freebies. The party has also replaced non-performer MLAs. Led by party chief and its CM face Kamal Nath, the Congress on the other hand seems confident of wresting power by a bigger margin than 2018 polls. The party is relying on its 11 poll guarantees (Old Pension Scheme for government employees, freebies like ₹1,500 monthly to women, resuming farm loan waiver, and conducting caste census). It is hopeful that the promise of a caste census will dent the BJP's most trusted OBC vote.

In Mizoram, the stakes for ruling MNF are high. Despite anti-incumbency, MNF stands a good chance of retaining power, thanks to its deft playing of the Kuki-Zo unity card. P10

DKS: Resurvey of properties to raise more tax

ENS @ Bengaluru

DEPUTY Chief Minister DK Shivakumar on Monday said that the State Government has no plans to increase property tax in Bengaluru now. But steps will be taken to streamline tax collection to help increase revenue by threefold.

"Under the Self-Assessment Scheme (SAS) for property tax collection, many owners fudge built-up areas to reduce tax. Hence, a re-survey of properties will be done. Once this is done, property tax collection (which is currently around Rs 3,000 crore) will increase by threefold. A separate team will be set up for this purpose," he said.

Speaking at the Brand Bengaluru Conclave here, Shivakumar said the BBMP will introduce "Nanna Swatthu" (my property) scheme soon. P2

Most of the 70 collegium picks to be notified soon

JAISON WILSON @ New Delhi

WEEKS after the Supreme Court's whiplash against the government's failure to clear 70 collegium recommendations for promotion/transfer in the higher judiciary, the Centre on Monday told the bench that almost all of them will be notified shortly, including the appointment of the Manipur High Court Chief Justice.

"We are processing them and will try to finish it before the October vacation. Will have to speak with the consultee judges," the Centre informed the bench. A bench of justices Sanjay Kishan Kaul and Sudhanshu Dhulia was hearing two pleas, including one moved by the Advocates Association of Bengaluru seeking contempt action against the law ministry for not following the timeline set by the court.

"Appointment of chief justice to the high court of a sensitive state has finally received their attention and they are doing it now," the bench said.

Calling it a positive development, the bench said almost 70 names for appointment and transfers recommended by various high court collegiums, which were pending with the ministry since November 2022 have finally landed before the SC's collegium. It will start processing them immediately.

On July 5, the SC collegium had recommended the appointment of Delhi High Court judge Siddharth Mridul as the chief justice of the Manipur High Court, amid the ethnic turmoil in the state.

On the issue of transfer of 26 high court judges, the bench noted that "the files in 14 cases have been cleared and notifications will be issued shortly".

As for the remaining 12, they are stated to be under process, the bench said.

Anekal, Attibele, and 110 villages to get Cauvery water: DyCM

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

AS the Cauvery Stage-V works are being completed, deputy chief minister DK Shivakumar said that the government will ensure the supply of Cauvery drinking water to Anekal, Attibele, and 110 villages under the Bhruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP), at the earliest.

Speaking at the Brand Bengaluru Conclave, here on Monday, Shivakumar said that 750 MLD of water will be supplied from Cauvery Stage-V. Further, he stated 20 Sewage Treatment Plants (STPs) are being upgraded and disc membrane filters will be added to treat the water.

The Bengaluru Development Minister also spoke about the traffic issue, and said that there are only three solutions - flyover, metro, and tunnel road - and all are expensive. He said, "The officials are given a free hand to clear encroachments to facilitate free movement of vehicles, and also address the issue of flooding. "Traffic police are also discussing changes of school and office timings in the city," he added.

Noting that 2-3 lakh people migrate to Bengaluru every year, Shivakumar said that currently 1.48 crore people live in the city. "Estimates are available based on the increasing number of electricity connections. The city is increasingly witnessing problems including drinking water woes and traffic congestion. Eight different teams are formed to plan and solve these issues, and a plan will be formulated based on their report," he stated.

The DyCM said QR codes will be displayed on each road to access the details of all works. "This will bring in transparency and avoid duplication of work, saving public money. The idea of the QR code is also to empower people with information on the road, works, and details of funds released from the authorities," he said.

Metro stretches on Purple Line open for public

India's second largest Metro network just got larger; extended to 73.81 km

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

METRO commuters were elated and relieved after two new stretches of Bengaluru Metro's East-West corridor became operational on Monday at 5 am. This new stretch takes India's second largest Metro network to a total of 73.81 kms.

With a 20 percent increase in figures on day one, the average daily ridership of 6.5 lakh on working days, is expected to shoot up to 7.5 lakh with the IT crowd, said Chief Public Relations Officer of BMRCL B L Yashavanth Chavan. Another official said, "The Whitefield line (up to Baiyappanahalli) had 45,500 riders up to 7 pm."

The maiden train covered a distance of 43.49kms with 37 stations in 93 minutes. The regular run is expected to cut the travel time by 11 minutes.

Sreejith S Pai, a software development manager is mighty relieved that he can easily visit his favourite Kashi Mutt in Malleshwaram from Whitefield. "I have gone there over 20 times recently and it was such a struggle. It will be really easy for me now as I will take Metro upto Majestic and the Green Line to Sampige Road. It was such a thrilling experience going over the Open Web Girder at Benniganahalli today."

Those who alighted at Challaghatta were mostly college students. S M.Laxmi, a 2nd yr medical student said, "I used to spend Rs 80 by cab from Vijayanagar to Kengeri and then take a bus. Today, I spent Rs 26 only and travelled so comfortably."

The two new extensions of the East West Corridor - 2.1 km between Baiyappanahalli and K R Pura and 2.05 km between Challaghatta and Kengeri - assume enormous significance for the IT crowd as it links Whitefield-K R Puram IT corridor with the existing network, and offers relief to thousands of college students in the educational hub of Challaghatta and BDA's Nadaprabhu Kempegowda Layout there.

Some Metro commuters had to face problems as display boards were not functional, and regular trains were delayed. Commuters were being asked to alight suddenly at Baiyappanahalli Metro station and take the next train at 12.20 pm. Senior BMRCL official said, "Patronage for the services dipped after noon. So, we decided to reduce trips. There was no technical issue with any of the trains."

30 BMTC FEEDER BUSES TO BE INTRODUCED

The Metro launch will be a massive game changer as it could reduce congestion on the Outer Ring Road too. BMTC is gearing up to provide 30 BMTC feeder last minute feeder bus services from KR Pura to Silk Board junction and other areas, said a transport source. "The exact number and routes will be announced on Wednesday," the source said.

HC raps govt for forcing parents to opt for pvt schools

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court said the failure to provide basic facilities like drinking water and toilets by the state government in its schools, is forcing parents to admit their wards to private schools.

"On one hand, because of lack of basic facilities, government schools are closed down, and on the other, as there is no option, parents who are not financially well off have no choice but to admit their wards in alternative schools," said a division bench of Chief Justice Prasanna B Varale and Justice Krishna S Dixit.

These scathing remarks came after amicus curiae KN Phanindra invited the court's attention to the report filed by the state government, stating a lack of drinking water facilities in 32 schools, and a lack of toilets in 464 schools in the state, and that Rs 80 crore was allocated to construct toilets.

The court observed that with this situation, the state government is encouraging parents to opt for private schools. "It makes underprivileged persons pay up, compromising on food to put their wards in private schools. Are we not creating a situation of haves and have-nots? This is unfortunate," the court told the government advocate.

The court was hearing a suo motu PIL initiated in 2013, through which it is monitoring the out-of-school children issue. The court orally observed that equality comes only from education, and is the reason Dr BR Ambedkar holds a book.

On the last date of hearing, the court granted three months to conduct the survey and submit a report, and made clear that wherever facility is not available, the government shall make provision with immediate measure. However, the government only gave data.

UNDER Nanna Swatthu scheme, property details will be digitised and documents made available to people on their cell phones.

Shivakumar said an automated building plan approval system will be introduced for owners of sites measuring 50x80ft and above. It facilitates easy approval for building plans once the empanelled architects design them and submit them to the authorities, eliminating the applicants' visit to BBMP offices.

He said these initiatives are being taken to increase tax collection. "My priority is to improve tax collection, and traffic and garbage management," he added.

Referring to suggestions given by people and ward committees, Shivakumar said there was a suggestion to form an "apolitical public committee" for management of parks and playgrounds in each ward. "The government will appoint a nodal officer. A plan to develop parks and playgrounds using local CSR funds and prevent their encroachment is being discussed," he said.

'Sahayahasta'

To address people's problems, a website, "Sahayahasta", is being developed. He will directly provide solutions to their problems through the website, Shivakumar said.

Findings

The eight committees set up under the Brand Bengaluru concept - Transportable Bengaluru, Green Bengaluru, Swachh Bengaluru, People-Friendly Bengaluru, Healthy Bengaluru, Tech Bengaluru, Water Safe Bengaluru and Educational Bengaluru - submitted their findings to the deputy chief minister.

The members of the committees held a brainstorming session. Soon, a comprehensive report will be submitted. A blueprint for Brand Bengaluru and Better Bengaluru will also be prepared.

WORLD MENTAL HEALTH DAY

AHEAD of World Mental Health Day observed on October 10, leading insurtech platform Plum has revealed that it has witnessed a four-fold surge in mental health tele-consultations among the 21-30 age group, as compared to the 31-40 age group. About 73 per cent of the consultation bookings were from people in the 21-30 age group, indicating increased awareness and acceptance.

Anxiety, stress and coping; relationship issues; self-growth; grief and loss and also clinical diagnosis are listed among the top reasons for people seeking consultation. It was revealed that approximately 55 per cent of women sought consultation, as compared to 45 per cent of men, indicating that women are more open to seeking assistance for their mental health.

It is also important to note that employees extended the benefit of mental health teleconsultations to their loved ones -- 10 per cent of all bookings come from siblings, 6 per cent from spouse, and 4 per cent from their parents or in-laws.

Saurabh Arora, co-founder and Chief Technology Officer at Plum said, "Our mission is to make a positive difference in people's lives by looking out for their physical, mental and financial well-being. The cost of mental health consultations can often go high. In major cities like Mumbai, Delhi and Bengaluru, the base price for a consultation typically ranges from Rs 1,200-Rs 2,400. Recognizing the financial barriers that may deter individuals from seeking the vital support they need, Plum is dedicated to making mental health care more affordable and accessible."

"Through our innovative approach and partnership with employers offering group health insurance policies, Plum aims to ensure that individuals have access to quality mental health consultation," he said.

10th October : Here's another idea from the latest science. When you look at any object, your mind expands to where that object is. Which means that if you look at a star, your mind expands to where that star is. The star is then actually inside your mind! If you think modern science is far-out, you're not wrong!

ARIES
(Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
In common with quite a number of other signs, you should view this as an ideal day for thought and communication. So get talking! Now! Whatever you've been sitting on or keeping to yourself should now be revealed to the world. In love, go that extra mile to keep the peace.

TAURUS
(Apr. 21 - May 21)
Check out your financial situation. It's likely that your choices might be greater than you think, both in terms of what you can do to maximise your earnings, and what can be done to pick up a bargain or two. One thing is certain - and it's that you need respect. Will it come? It depends on you!

GEMINI
(May 22 - June 21)
By the time you wake up this morning the Moon should have embarked on a new and beneficial cycle. Above all, try to get a fix on events at home, and insist that your wishes be obeyed! Partners who think that they can get away with anything will soon learn how wrong they are.

CANCER
(June 22 - July 23)
Over the next forty-eight hours you should aim to spend as much time as possible by yourself. The aim is not just to be alone, but to give yourself the space for your imagination to drift off and come back with the answer to a current dilemma. At work, look after all those little facts, or you'll miss a vital detail.

LEO
(July 24 - Aug. 23)
You could be increasingly troubled by vague fears and imagined spectres. Some may have a grounding in reality, but all will be largely shaped by your imagination. Such worries will be dealt with all the more easily if you admit that they are there and bring them out into the open.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
Choices, choices, choices! How tired you get of having to make up your mind - and then make up other people's minds for them as well! Unfortunately, it does seem inevitable that you must now decide between two completely different ways of putting your ambitions into action.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
Travel looms. That's not to say that you'll be going anywhere at the moment, but if you can plan a future journey now, you'll be doing yourself a big favour and setting yourself a target to work towards. You've still got your secrets, but all that will change before long.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
The financial sector of your solar horoscope has been in an inspired, if dubious, situation for some years now, so it should come as no surprise to find that once again you're heading for a monetary roller-coaster. This time you should know what to do about it!

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
The golden rule in business is always to think first - and spend later. Your tendency at the moment is to act impulsively, taking only instant impressions into account, but at a time when there could be so much at stake, you should be a little more cautious.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
In all personal relationships the rule is to trust other people only when they've shown what they're made of. This is not because anyone is out to mislead you, but because appearances are not what they seem. Your intuitive antennae should be working overtime.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
The best approach to professional and organisational hassles is to be as creative as possible. This means being prepared to break with routine and insist that your own personal skills take precedence over traditional ways of doing things. But will other people listen? I hope so!

PISCES
(Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
Home is often the best refuge, a place where you can indulge your Piscean fantasies. This is how it should be today, although domestic seclusion looks set to alternate with bursts of manic socialising over the coming days. Partners still have the advantage, by the way, so do what you're told!

Yesterday's Jumbles: MOSSY CHOMP SETTLE PLURAL
Answer: The fashion boutique was going out of business, so they had a — "CLOTHES-OUT" SALE

A 23-year-old woman was allegedly molested at Brigade Road junction while waiting for a cab around 12.30 am on Sunday. The victim was with her friends, when an unknown man allegedly touched her inappropriately. Her friends caught the accused, Madhusudan, a 38-year-old native of Mangaluru, and handed him over to police

Cracker trader played with fire, was served notice last yr

Sources say police had seized godown for breaking rules, but political interference helped it get back into business

BANSY KALAPPA @ Bengaluru:

THE fire at Balaji Traders cracker shop in the border town of Attibele, which consumed 14 lives, was a tragedy waiting to happen. The establishment had been in trouble earlier too, for a lack of safety measures.

Sources said Balaji Traders' Attibele unit had been served a notice last year, and Fire officers and police had seized the godown for flouting rules, but in a matter of hours, politicians interfered and the store was back in business. "It's terrible. How can one restart business just 2-3 hours after the godown was seized," said sources.

The cracker merchant has a major wholesale outlet in the congested Chickpet area, and any blaze in this dense cluster of business establishments can be a disaster.

Sources said Balaji Traders is not the only one with a godown here. There are about 20 more wholesale shops, where firecrackers are stacked in congested enclosures. The total stock could fill the size of a football field, and is worth a few hundred crores of rupees. It's a tinderbox, and any untoward incident here will make Saturday's fire tragedy appear minor. In fact, a massive fire here in 1980 had gutted about 15 cracker shops and claimed 28 lives, sources said.

In this particular case, corruption played a big role, said a source. "While permission for smaller places rests with the Bangalore Urban Deputy Commissioner, permits for larger places rests with the explosives department. The Fire services department, BBMP and police are vested with the authority to make changes, but corruption and political interference play spoilsport," the source added.

While opposition leaders have been crying hoarse and alleging that rules were flouted, Chief Minister Siddaramaiah has called a meeting of top officials, bureaucrats and police officers on Tuesday to discuss the way forward, considering that Deepawali is just a month away. They are likely to discuss precautionary measures to avoid such tragedies. The DG&IGP, DGP, Fire Services and police commissioner will participate in the meeting.

CID begins probe into Attibele blaze

The Criminal Investigation Department (CID) started a probe into the Attibele fire tragedy on Monday. A CID team led by IGP Pravin Pawar and SP (Homicide and Burglary) Venkatesh N visited the spot and gathered information. Meanwhile, Fire and Emergency department and Revenue officers conducted a survey of almost 35 shops near Attibele, and found that most of them were operating illegally, without obtaining licences. Bengaluru Rural SP Mallikarjun Baldandi told TNIE, "All shops were temporarily closed until the fire safety department establishes and enforces its own set of regulations that all shops within the jurisdiction must adhere to, in order to resume operation." Out of seven who sustained burns, four are still hospitalized and one is in critical condition, he added.

Commercial taxes dept catches hold of hoteliers fudging GST turnovers

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE vigilance wing of the Commercial Taxes Department conducted a search in Hoskote, Bengaluru Rural District and scooped out the hoteliers who allegedly suppressed their GST turnovers. They were using multiple UPI accounts to avoid issuing tax invoices.

After conducting multiple surveys and reconnaissance, a team of 50 officers, on Monday, conducted the operation at the business premises and residences of such hoteliers. It was also noted that they were mainly engaged in supply of Biryani and other non-vegetarian items.

"The modus operandi was receiving payments on multiple UPI accounts (in addition to cash), and constantly changing the UPI accounts, so that the actual turnovers are suppressed and taxes are evaded," said C Shikha, Commissioner of Commercial Taxes.

No issue of tax invoices

"The hoteliers were not issuing tax invoices/bills of sale for supply of food items and did not maintain proper accounts. In one case, 30 different QR codes were found," she added.

During the search, in one of the residences of a proprietor, around Rs 1.47 crore cash was found and Income Tax department officials were alerted immediately, and the department has initiated proceedings, she added and said that the Commercial Taxes Department is constantly focusing on analyzing and acting upon various methods adopted by tax evaders, and will continue to act in that direction.

Courier boy murdered during Ganesha procession

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

A 24-year-old courier boy was stabbed to death after he objected to the accused dancing in front of his house during a Ganesha procession. The incident took place at AK Colony in Adugodi police station limits on Sunday night.

The victim was identified as Srinivas, a resident of AK Colony. Srinivas's mother Indramma was also stabbed. The accused, identified as Vinay, Ranjith and a few others, allegedly stabbed Srinivas to death with a sharp weapon. In the tussle, Ranjith also sustained injuries. One of the accused is said to be a rowdy-sheeter.

Police said Vinay and his friends had installed the idol in AK Colony and were taking it in a procession for immersion on Sunday night.

Srinivas and his friends had also installed an idol last month. When they were going in a procession, Srinivas started dancing in front of the Vinay's residence and the latter had objected. Srinivas, who had kept it in mind, objected when Vinay danced in front of his house on Sunday. When Srinivas and the accused started fighting, local residents intervened and pacified them. The gang, however, returned and picked a fight with Srinivas before killing him, police added.

CENTRAL TEAM CONVINCED ABOUT DROUGHT SITUATION IN STATE: MIN

State govt has sought Rs 4,800 crore, says Krishna Byregowda

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE central drought assessment team that completed its inspection seems to be convinced with the drought situation and the distress faced by farmers in the state. The state government is now hoping to get the compensation in the next few days, said Revenue Minister Krishna Byregowda here on Monday.

During its inspection, the central team discussed the situation with farmers and elected representatives and responded positively to the memorandum submitted by the state government. "The team members too agreed that the situation is not good. We hope to get drought relief funds soon. The central team held discussions with the state government on Monday too. The crop damage in the state is huge and farmers are suffering. Our officials told the central team that the state may face drinking water shortage in the coming days," he said.

"We have sought over Rs 4,800 crore, but we don't know how much they will approve," he added. The central team was convinced with the drought situation in the state after visiting several places. "Our state is facing a peculiar drought situation. We don't know whether other states too are in a similar position. We are appealing to the Centre to come to the rescue of farmers and guide them in farming," he said. Till now, the state has declared 195 taluks drought hit. "Of the remaining 41 taluks, deputy commissioners in 21 taluks have been told to complete crop surveys in two days. Once the surveys are done, drought will be declared in more taluks," he said.

"We will write letters seeking meetings with Union ministers to allow us to explain the ground situation and to submit the memorandum to them," he added.

Farmer leaders: Centre must look into river row

ENS @ Bengaluru

FARMER leaders from Karnataka on Monday met Union Jal Shakti Minister Gajendra Singh Shekhawat and Cauvery Water Management Authority (CWMA) Chairman Saumitra Kumar Haldar in New Delhi, and apprised them of the prevailing situation in Karnataka. They sought the Centre's intervention in the Cauvery water-sharing issue, to protect the interests of farmers in Karnataka.

Kuruburu Shanthakumar, convenor, Karnataka Jala Samrakshana Samiti, who led the farmers' delegation, said they had explained the ground realities to the minister as well as CWMA chairman, and demanded that the release of water to Tamil Nadu should be stopped immediately. "Not only are Karnataka's farmers in the Cauvery basin in distress, 1.3 crore residents of Bengaluru city who are dependent only on the Cauvery for drinking water, are staring at a crisis. The state government has failed to conduct meetings with various stakeholders, including farmers and Kannada organizations, hence on behalf of the Karnataka Jala Samrakshana Samiti, we wish to request the Central government to intervene immediately and provide justice..." the farmer leaders stated in a memorandum to the minister.

The Jal Shakti ministry has to intervene immediately and stop the release of Cauvery water, unscientifically allotted to Tamil Nadu, and set up a team of experts who can assess the crisis in the Cauvery basin on an immediate basis and implement a justifiable distress formula, the farmers said. They also urged the minister to convene a meeting of chief ministers, water resource ministers, and officials of Karnataka and Tamil Nadu to understand the drought situation in the Cauvery basin firsthand. They said the proposed Mekedatu balancing reservoir can store 65 tmcft of water and help Karnataka and Tamil Nadu handle drought years adequately.

"Karnataka bears the entire burden of safeguarding and maintaining the forests in the Western Ghats that help us with plentiful rain. Tamil Nadu, that asks for its share of water, should contribute at least Rs 2,000 crore a year for protection and conservation of the forests in Karnataka," the memorandum stated.

SEAT-SHARING WITH BJP YET TO BE DECIDED: GOWDA

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Mangaluru

FORMER prime minister and JDS supremo H D Deve Gowda, accompanied by his wife Chennamma, visited Kukke Subramanya temple on Monday. Later, speaking to the media on his party's alliance with the BJP, Gowda said seat-sharing is yet to be decided ahead of Lok Sabha polls.

"(Former CM and Gowda's son) Kumaraswamy met Union Home Minister Amit Shah and discussed contesting the Lok Sabha elections together. We still have four months for the polls. Seat-sharing will be decided after Dasara. We had held two rounds of meetings with 19 MLAs and eight MLCs, and then only Kumaraswamy met the BJP top brass to discuss the alliance. We will hold a second round of meetings with Shah soon. We have decided to go with the BJP, as we want to shatter Congress' confidence of winning 28 seats," he said.

To a query, the former PM said they will not discuss how votes will get split on the basis of caste. "In the previous election, BJP received 30-33% votes, while Congress received around 40% and JDS received 20-22%. The state's people will decide on the BJP-JDS alliance. Let us not discuss political developments of the past in the state. Now, a Congress government is there in the state and they are confident of winning 28 seats. Hence, we have decided to fight the upcoming election with the support of the BJP," he added.

Regarding the I.N.D.I.A bloc, Gowda said they will not discuss the new alliance of the opposition. "Be it NDA or I.N.D.I.A, we are not concerned about them. I'm 91-years-old and I do not want to comment on these alliances," he said.

To a question on the violence in Shivamogga, he said it is a sensitive area and the government must take all precautionary measures in these matters.

Meanwhile, Gowda and his wife offered Ashlesha Puja at Kukke Subramanya temple and also Tulabhara.

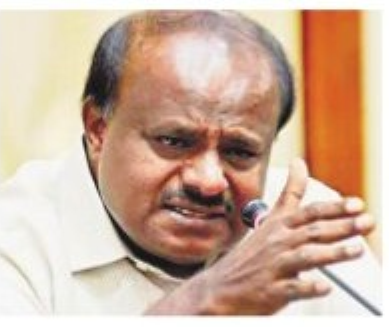
HDK, DKS spar for leadership within community

DEVARAJ B HIREHALLI
@ Bengaluru

THE political slugfest between former chief minister HD Kumaraswamy and Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar is turning out to be a contest between two Vokkaliga strongmen, as they attempt to reign as leaders in the the community's bastion – the Old Mysuru region. With With Shivakumar proving his mettle as the KPCC president by winning more seats in the Vokkaliga strongholds, especially in Mandya and Ramanagara, Kumaraswamy seems to be making all-out efforts to prove himself as the stronger community leader ahead of the 2024 Lok Sabha polls, said political analysts. Evidently, Kumaraswamy is not leaving any stone unturned to snub Shivakumar, they observed.



On Sunday, Kumaraswamy had stated that the Congress government in the state will collapse and Shivakumar may go back to Tihar Jail, following which several Vokkaliga community leaders slammed the former CM. "It does not befit Kumaraswamy's stature, as one of the former chief ministers of the state, to make statements like the government will collapse and Shivakumar will go to jail. Shivakumar is the DyCM, KPCC president and one of the influential leaders of the community," said Agriculture Minister N Chaluvarayasamy.

Arasikere MLA KM Shivalinge Gowda observed that Kumaraswamy might have been issuing such statements, feeling that his influence in the community is on the wane, even as Shivakumar has been growing strong.

Shivakumar's younger brother and Bengaluru Rural MP DK Suresh hit out at Kumaraswamy, observing that the latter is finding it difficult to keep the JDS workers from deserting their party, compelling him to resort to such tactics.

"During his meeting with Union Home Minister Amit Shah, Kumaraswamy might have requested that Shivakumar be sent to jail. It will remain as his dream as time will answer. When the time comes, we too will expose Kumaraswamy," he claimed.

Shivakumar, while replying to Kumaraswamy, said that the latter must be referring to what he has done in the past (to our family) and what he is going to do in future. "Kumaraswamy has revealed what he plans to do. He is recalling the case filed against my sister, brother and my wife when he was chief minister," he said.

Drought effect on forest lands will be assessed

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

AS the central team completed its survey of drought-hit regions in the state, another survey on the impact of drought and climate change on the forests of Karnataka will be taken up soon.

Forest, Environment and Ecology Minister Eshwar Khandre told TNIE that the extent of drought effect on the state's forests will be assessed. It will be discussed with Chief Minister Siddaramaiah at the review meeting scheduled for Tuesday.

Forest department sources said drought and prolonged dry spell have not just affected the grasslands, but also agricultural activities inside and on the fringes of forests. The flora and fauna and aquatic life have been impacted. As water bodies are drying up inside forests, and stress on animals is increasing, the demand for such a survey has been mounting, they said.

Though Khandre did not exactly specify the date of the survey, he said it will be done soon. He also said that over 400 farmers in Sakleshpur have come forward to hand over their land to the forest department as they are unable to stave off elephants. Farmers adjacent to forest areas, spread across 3000 acres, are keen to surrender their lands, he added.

"They are fed up with elephants raiding their crops. Also, no one else is coming forward to buy their land. The first proposal to surrender the lands to the forest department was made in 2003, but was left unattended. The government is now deciding the cost and legalities to purchase these lands. But the final decision will be taken by the chief minister. He had also recently said the forest area should be increased to 33%," Khandre said.

START ECO-EDUCATION FROM PRIMARY SCHOOL: KHANDRE

Forest Minister Eshwar Khandre on Monday said children and youth are becoming aware of their environment and conservation activities. Environmental education should be introduced at the primary school level. As the population is increasing, the demand for land too is rising. There is a need for better conservation efforts, he said on the sidelines of the closing ceremony of 69th Wildlife Week, organised by the forest department in the city.

COMMITTED TO PROTECTING KANNADIGAS: CM

Chief Minister Siddaramaiah expressed concern over the situation in Israel. The state government is committed to protecting every Kannadiga in any corner of the world, the CM said. "If your family members in Israel cannot reach you or if you need immediate assistance due to the war, you can call the helpline," the CM stated, taking to 'X'. The state government has opened the helpline (080-22340676 and 080-22253707) for the family members of people from Karnataka stranded in Israel. A senior official said the call centre has received only one call, as many people may be directly dialling helplines of the Ministry of External Affairs.

The families hire us, provide us accommodation, food and salary which is not less than Rs 1.5 lakh in Indian currency," he added.

"We have been getting calls from our friends and relatives. There is no threat to our life here. Both the Israeli and Indian governments are taking care of us. There are no casualties or injuries to any Kannadigas. The Israelis have told us to stay indoors," said Godfrey Fernandes, who stays in Hadera -- about 100 km from Tel Aviv. While some rockets were intercepted by Israel's anti-missile defence system, Iron Dome. There was no panic among their relatives in India till some Nepalis, seven from Thailand and a few from the Philippines were killed. "But there is nothing to worry about. Telangana Chief Electoral Officer Vikas Raj and GHMC Commissioner Ronald Rose announce that Election Code of Conduct has come into force on Monday | EXPRESS

Stating that the model code of conduct (MCC) has come into force with the announcement of the election schedule for the Telangana Assembly, Telangana Chief Electoral Officer (CEO) Vikas Raj on Monday said that the MCC would be implemented strictly in the State with the help of integrated expenditure monitoring software.

"For the first time, the Election Commission of India (ECI) has introduced this software to monitor the expenditure by the candidates and political parties. These would be monitored on a regular basis to ensure that candidates and political parties follow the rules and procedures in force," the CEO said.

With regard to the filing of nomination forms by the candidate, Vikas Raj said all the columns in the nomination forms must be duly filled. If there is any blank column, it is liable to further scrutiny. If it is left blank again, the form is liable for rejection, he said.

Vikas Raj added that elections will take place in Telangana on November 30 and counting of votes will take place on December 3. The election notification will be issued on November 3 and the entire process will be completed on December 5. Vikas Raj said that for the first time, the elderly have been given the opportunity to vote from home with the help of volunteers. He said that along with the names of candidates and poll symbols, there will also be photos of the candidates on the ballots.

He made it clear that all contesting candidates and political parties should declare their criminal antecedents, if any, through advertisements. All these advertisements need a pre-certification from media monitoring committees, he said.

Meanwhile, all the major political parties are gearing up for the polls. The ruling BRS, which already announced candidates in 115 Assembly segments, is all set to finalise the candidates for the remaining five seats. However, the Congress and the BJP are still on the job of finalising the candidates. The internal bickering in the Congress delayed the announcement of the candidates. The BJP is in the process of shortlisting its candidates from 6,000 applications it received from the ticket aspirants.

The AIMIM, BSP and Jana Sena are ready to field their candidates. But YSRCP is believed to be preparing to contest from all 119 segments.

Except BJP, all parties back TN resolution on Cauvery

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Chennai

THE Tamil Nadu Assembly on Monday adopted a resolution moved by Chief Minister MK Stalin urging the union government to direct Karnataka to release Cauvery water to Tamil Nadu as per the directions of the Supreme Court. All parties except the BJP, which staged a walkout, supported the resolution.

Speaker M Appavu declared the resolution as unanimously passed after the main opposition AIADMK too supported it following a debate. The BJP wanted the resolution to be amended pledging support to nationalisation of rivers and the Dam Safety Act.

"In order to protect the livelihood of Cauvery delta farmers, who are the basis of Tamil Nadu's agriculture, this august house unanimously urges the union government to direct Karnataka to release water to Tamil Nadu as stipulated in the final verdict of the Supreme Court," the resolution said.

The CM said the Karnataka government has created an artificial crisis and had failed to release Cauvery water that's due to Tamil Nadu. Giving a detailed account of the efforts taken by Tamil Nadu to get water from the neighbouring state, Stalin said the Cauvery Water Regulation Committee is scheduled to review the situation on October 12. In that meeting, Tamil Nadu would demand that Karnataka should make good the shortfall in release of water as directed by the CWRC and CWMA and also press for its water share due for the next 15 days, the CM said.

"The resolution is being moved in the interest of farmers. We will strive to get Cauvery water without making any compromises. The Union government should act in an appropriate manner and ensure Cauvery water for the people of Tamil Nadu," Stalin said.

Woman who facilitated daughter's rape an insult to motherhood: HC

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Kochi

COMING down heavily on a woman who allegedly facilitated the rape of her minor daughter by the girl's stepfather, the Kerala High Court observed that her actions were an 'insult to motherhood.'

"The allegations against the petitioner are very serious and, if true, they are an insult to motherhood," the court observed while dismissing the bail plea of the woman, the second accused. The prosecution said there was even an allegation that the woman, on one occasion, stripped the minor at the behest of the stepfather, the first accused. Between 2018 and 2023, the man, with the knowledge and consent of the woman, indulged in sexually flavoured talks with the survivor. The girl was forced to send her nude pictures to her stepfather's phone. He first raped the minor in October 2018 and continued the activity at a rented house in Koppam. The man committed the offences in connivance with the girl's mother, the prosecution said.

Justice Gopinath P observed: "The petitioner, being the biological mother of the minor victim, may be in a position to influence or intimidate her if granted bail. The victim's statement that she was subjected to rape even in the presence of her mother is another reason that compels me to hold that the petitioner is not entitled to bail."

RARE BAMBOO PIT VIPER RESCUED IN KALASA

Chikkamagaluru: A rare Bamboo Pit Viper from the Viperidae family was found at a house garden in Kalasa town. The Pit Viper which is the most beautiful snake in the reptile family, is endangered and on the brink of extinction. It is largely found in the ranges of the Western Ghat. Cricketer KL Rahul scores big off field too, helps girl

Shruti Kulavi with Manjunath Hebsur, who helped her get help from cricketer K L Rahul | EXPRESS

MALLIKARJUN Hiremath @Dharwad

TEAM India cricketer K L Rahul not only scores big runs on international cricket pitches, but also shows he has a big heart off the field. The cricketer has extended a helping hand to an economically poor girl by providing her financial assistance and got her admitted in a private school in Dharwad.

This gesture of the sportsman has won many hearts in the twin cities. People say such acts of kindness will also motivate others to follow suit.

This is not the first time that the cricketer has shown that he has a kind heart.

He has helped many other needy people in different ways.

Speaking to The New Indian Express, Manjunath Hebsur, a political activist, said he knows K L Rahul well. When he came across the needs of the girl, he contacted Rahul who agreed to help the girl.

The beneficiary, Shruti Kuvali, was facing difficulties to get admission to Class 1 in a private school due to lack of funds. "The girl's father Hanumantappa Kuvali called me and sought help. I discussed it with a few friends before we finally brought it to the notice of K L Rahul. When he listened to the problem, he instantly agreed to help. He has also helped other students, including some for engineering courses", he added.

A teacher from the school in which the girl finally got admission said, Hanumantappa has three daughters and he runs a small business which is not enough to meet his family's needs. He, however, managed to get his two elder daughters admitted to an English medium school. It was only after the payment was made that the school management realised it was from the cricketer.

A relative of Hanumantappa said, Rahul helps people quietly. He is not after publicity for any such acts. "It is not the question of money alone. Such gestures show how kind and good-hearted person he is", he added.

NEED A PRAGMATIC APPROACH TOWARDS ONLINE GAMING

THE GST Council meeting on Saturday discussed the contentious issue of 28 percent tax on the full value of bets placed by customers on gambling and gaming. Some council members spoke on the provision of retrospective taxation that has resulted in some online gaming companies getting tax demands many times their revenues. The revenue secretary reiterated that there was no retrospective taxation and that this was the law earlier, too. The clarification does little to ease the situation for gaming companies that are together facing over a lakh crore in tax demands. The core issue remains unresolved.

The government's dilemma in accepting gambling and online gaming as ethical business activities is leading to ambiguous policy making. This is resulting in distress and uncertainty in the sector that now boasts of employing lakhs of people and generating over $2 billion in revenue. The indecisiveness is threatening billions of dollars in investment. According to India Invest, the Indian gaming industry has received around $2.8 billion between 2017 and 2022. The industry claims to provide around one lakh jobs to developers, programmers, testers, animators and content creators. Many of these are high-skilled, high-paying jobs.

After the GST Council made its tax stance clear in August, the tax department started sending demand notices. Delta Corp, which operates casinos, received a demand of over ₹11,100 crore for the 2017-22 period; during these five years the company's consolidated revenue was around ₹3,300 crore. Bengaluru-based Gameskraft has received a tax demand of ₹21,000 crore and Dream11 is reported to have received a notice for ₹18,000 crore in dues. These are inordinate demands of companies that earn a fraction in revenues. They have now challenged the demands in court.

These cases are likely to drag on for months, keeping the sector on tenterhooks. The resultant uncertainty may shut down some of the gaming start-ups, wasting millions of investment dollars and thousands of jobs. The government should take a more pragmatic approach to break this stalemate. It can come up with an amnesty scheme, settle the tax claims for a part of the demand, and let the industry figure out a way to operate in the new tax regime.

CELEBRATE ASIAD HIGH, BUT FOCUS ON OLYMPICS

THERE are about 290 days to go to the Paris Olympics. From an Indian perspective, the buzz generated by the record medal haul at the Asian Games in Hangzhou has already seen sports fans come up with predictions. That's what winning 107 medals—including 28 golds—is bound to do. But, as the saying goes, let us not count the chickens before they are hatched. Medalling at the Asian Games—though challenging—is one thing; replicating the same level of success in France will take a whole different level of planning. The chef de mission at this year's Games, Bhupinder Singh Bajwa, said the target is to double the tally in Tokyo, but winning fourteen Olympic medals is going to be no joke.

India's two strongest sports at these Games were athletics (29 medals) and shooting (22). However, we are nowhere near the global elites in athletics—we won just one gold at Tokyo 2020, courtesy Neeraj Chopra—and will have to contend with the likes of the US and the eastern Europeans in shooting, apart from China. In women's javelin, Annu Rani won us gold. But she did not have to contend with Japan's Haruka Kitaguchi, the reigning world champion. Distance runners such as Parul Chaudhary and Avinash Sable (both won two medals) will have to compete with the sport's top Africans. Compound archery, which won us five golds, is not an Olympic discipline. Squash and cricket, responsible for four golds between them, is another non-Olympic sport as of now.

The country can be heartened by the superstars who did not let the high expectations become a burden. One reason why India finished with 107 medals is that many familiar names delivered under pressure: Neeraj Chopra, M Sreeshankar, the men's badminton duo of Satwiksairaj Rankireddy and Chirag Shetty, Nikhat Zareen, and Sable. The country also unearthed potential in the form of Esha Singh and Sift Kaur in shooting, and Kishore Jena and Vithya Ramraj in athletics. Ramraj came within a whisker of overhauling PT Usha's longstanding 400 metres hurdles record. It was made possible because of a holistic approach with exposure trips, training camps and foreign coaches. With less than 300 days to the Olympics, there is no time to rest on laurels. Planning to be at peak performance at the Games should begin right now because next year's challenge is greater.

QUICK TAKE

STRENGTHEN ARCHAEOLOGICAL SURVEY

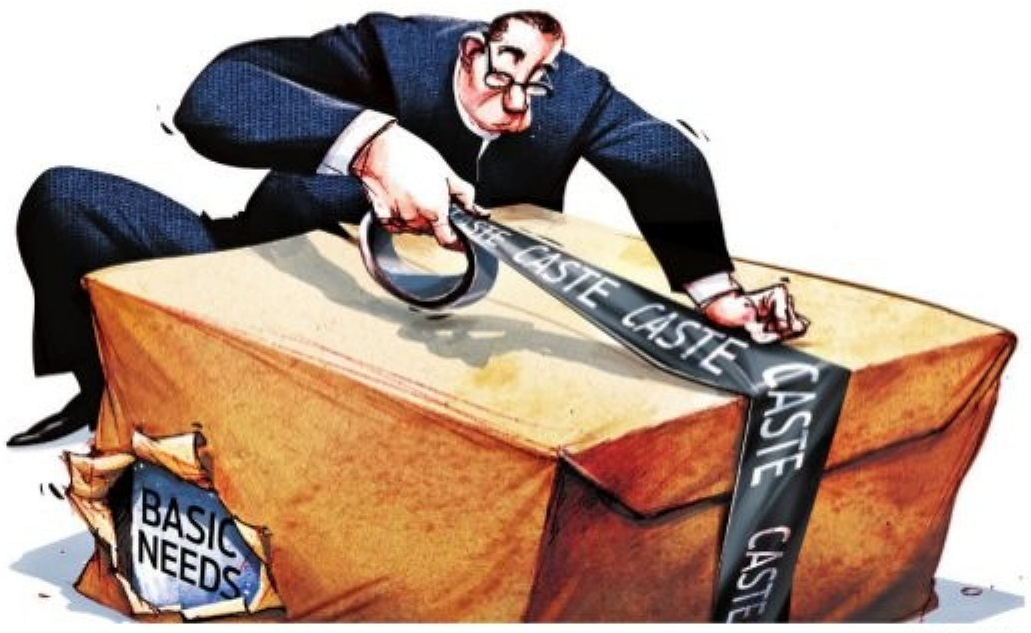
THE parliamentary committee on culture recently suggested doing away with at least a quarter of the list of 3,691 centrally protected monuments. Relisting the monuments makes sense. On the other hand, we need to do better with the ones we choose to preserve. The Archaeological Survey barely manages to guard some of the monuments on its paltry budget; conservation and outreach are distant dreams at most sites. The culture ministry got less than a hundredth of the total Union budget for 2023-24. In contrast, the UK, US and China spend more than two percent on culture. It is time we gave the keepers of our heritage the support they deserve.

The Bihar census has refocused our attention on age-old divisions. We often talk of caste as if it were a basic need, though it obviously isn't

THE DIE IS CASTE FOR 2024 BATTLE

HARISH BIJOOR

Brand Guru and Founder, Harish Bijoor Consults Inc



SOUMYADIP SINHA

CASTE is back. The recent release of data by the Bihar government of its specific caste 'survey'—remember, a 'census' is not appropriate yet—has set caste among the pigeons. Caste is really the cat that has lived among us all along. A cat we imagine doesn't even exist. But it does.

Caste and its sub-variants of every kind are really the lowest common denominators of differentiation that Indian society has lived with for years. India has believed in this item of differentiation since forever, if the 3,000-plus years of history of the caste system is to be believed. This rather rigid differentiation system has been the operating system of our society for a long time.

In the last several years, caste has become a politically incorrect terminology to seek out, use and talk about in civilised society. You never go out and ask a person his, her or their caste today. Application forms for various government services, which would hitherto ask for this data, are that much more circumspect on this ask today. Caste, however, has gone nowhere despite all this. It lives and thrives in our midst, in our society, in our institutions, and most importantly, in the politics of the land. Whenever the political class has found it expedient to use it, it has. And whenever it has thought it not to be, it has been brushed under the carpet. As of last week, this carpet has just been dusted, and the dust of debate is all around. Let me add my two bits to it as well.

If we peep into our society and our daily lives, caste bothers few in the big metropolis. It starts taking on a life and meaning of its own as we dive deeper into the terrains of the smaller towns, villages, and more so the deep rural spaces. The deeper you go, the more caste you find. Caste is therefore as real as it is being made out to be.

Indian society is all about its many divisions. Politicians in the decades after independence have seen it expedient to use these divisions to their advantage. The first division is that of religion. India today boasts of three big religions which comprise the bulk of the nation's population: Hindus (79 percent), Muslims (15 percent) and Christians (2 percent). The division then deepens within each religion on many counts. Caste and denomination is but one. Add to it the very important issue of those deprived and those not. Scheduled Castes, Backward Classes, Most Backward Classes, Economically Backward Classes, Scheduled Tribes, and more. Add a gender subdivision to each of these categories, and the complexity of the caste and reservation debate comes to the fore. Add a number to complicate it as well. India today has 3,000 castes and as many as 25,000 sub-castes on the roster.

The current debate stoked by the Bihar government and its caste survey is set to cascade into a talking point of big impact as we near the 2024 general elections in India. Politicians of every ilk understand clearly that the basic division of society along religious lines has been done and laid out deep and clear. Newer formations such as the Indian National Developmental Inclusive Alliance, and older formations that do not belong to the ruling National Democratic Alliance coalition are going to dip into this new-old issue and monetise it for votes. The idea is a simple one. Divisions on the basis of religion have been done to death. Time to go micro. The biggest piece of Indian society is Hindu society. There is a sitting opportunity to micro-divide on the basis of caste. The old debate during and prior to Mandal was all about the forward castes versus the backward castes (the latter was weighted heavily in numbers). If the idea then was to keep the upper classes away from reservations, the current caste survey cry seems to be to give every part of society its share. The "jitni aabadi, utna haq" call is a conscious strategic call of opposition parties in India to micro-divide the debate. To advantage.

If one just peeps into the data in the Bihar caste survey, the upper castes occupy a small 15.54 percent. The balance 84.46 percent comprises people who belong to every other caste constellation. If you peep into the composition of Bihar's society in terms of education opportunities, particularly at the secondary and higher education levels, the caste survey throws up disparities that are rather glaring. The same is true when it comes to jobs on offer and its current occupants. Merit aside, if you count castes, sub-castes, the many years of affirmative action and more, the picture can look embarrassing.

Therefore, do you want to change the way you look at reservations—in education and jobs—as it is in practice in India today? Must you change it altogether based on real-time caste dispersions and their economic status? And what is the end goal of affirmative action and its many tools that India has used since independence? How many more years will it take for India to stand up proudly and say that all Indians are alike and all Indians have equal opportunities to excel?

Indian society has many needs, wants, desires and aspirations. When we talk caste and its many dimensions, we still talk at the level of 'basic need'. Food, water, clothing and shelter are the real basic ones. Add to it education and all our basic rights as enshrined in the Constitution of India, and that is our 'basic want'. If you add reservations in education and jobs for the most depressed and oppressed parts of society, that is a matter of 'basic desire'. And now, as the caste debate cascades into a robust political movement of the future at the grassroots level of Indian democracy, caste-based reservations (for both the creamy and not so creamy layer of Indian society) all across will be positioned as a 'basic aspiration' for all. Watch the election campaigns for 2024 for more.

There is an important question to answer at this juncture. Should India's long-delayed decennial census (next in 2025) be an all-India caste census as well? Should it be one that collects details of both caste and economic status of every individual? And will this be the basic clamour of the 2024 elections? Has Nitish Kumar set the caste among the pigeons?

THE ABSURDITY OF GETTING AT BEIJING VIA NEW YORK

C P SURENDRAN

Poet, novelist, and screenplay writer. His latest novel is One Love and the Many Lives of Osip B

IN their crusade against the Modi dispensation, the liberals had turned the New York Times (NYT) into something like a court of justice. Last week, the Right rolled up the paper and swatted them. And once again, free speech was the casualty. And this is happening repeatedly because we are unable to define how free our speech can be. What can't be defined can't be defended.

On August 5, the freshly patriotic NYT published a report, 'A Global Web of Chinese Propaganda Leads to a U.S. Tech Mogul', which made a passing mention—one sentence—on NewsClick. "In New Delhi, corporate filings show, Mr. (Neville Roy) Singham's network financed a news site, NewsClick, that sprinkled its coverage with Chinese government talking points." An aside: the NYT has no problem with China pumping billions of dollars into American universities, Harvard included.

The report displays a link to a NewsClick video as an example. It was put out on October 2, 2019, on the 70th anniversary of the Chinese Revolution, and is mostly on Mao's feats which transformed China from an agrarian to an industrial economy, a process that killed scores of millions.

The Cultural Revolution alone killed an estimated two million people, according to Frank Dikötter (The Cultural Revolution: A People's History, 1962-1976). And this does not include the hundreds of thousands of cats collected in sacks and smashed against pillars and walls. A pet cat was considered at that time an enemy of the State. At the same time, history is replete with instances when the State itself turned out to be an enemy of the people. Well, the video in question was boring propaganda credited to Peoples Dispatch, which claims to promote 'fact-based' journalism, the new god everyone swears by now. NewsClick need not have aired it at all. That they did shows they are friends with the Chinese. But does it warrant arrest, jail, sealing of the office?

In a statement to a leading Indian newspaper, Jason Pfetcher, the sole manager of Worldwide Media Holdings (WMH)—owned by Neville Roy Singham—which funded NewsClick, called the NYT report "misleading", and said that it has "directly contributed" to the Delhi police action against several journalists on October 3. He denied the authorities' claim that 'Chinese government money or Chinese private money' funded NewsClick.

The WMH was created after the sale of ThoughtWorks, a software company founded by Singham. Singham says he is not under any influence from the Chinese Communist Party or the government. When the NYT visited Singham's office in Shanghai though, they did find some evidence of his China partisanship: "He shares the office with a Chinese media company called Maku Group, which says its objective is to 'tell China's story well', a term commonly used for foreign propaganda." But the NYT does not investigate Singham's possible volition or duress in his co-existence with Maku Group. Or, in these times of coworking spaces, does it matter who you share your coffee machine with?

The New York Times

WIKIMEDIA

A single reference in a New York Times report on a funder's probable Chinese links has landed NewsClick in trouble. It's flimsy form on all sides

Pfetcher joined Singham to "assist" the latter "in his efforts to give away most of the proceeds he received" from the sale of ThoughtWorks, which amounted to $785 million. This was in 2017. WMH invested in NewsClick in 2018 after identifying the latter as an organisation consistent with its purposes. WMH in turn is run by People's Support Foundation (PSF) skippered by activist Jodie Evans, Singham's wife.

The problem for the Indian authorities is to define what is legitimate as alternative news and views, the opposite of legacy media content. Because this is where the industry is going. In the absence of any clear definition as yet, the First Information Report's main charge necessarily is that NewsClick "circumvented" laws to channel Roy's benefactions.

In his rebuttal, Pfetcher states that his company has done all due diligence by law. This appears to be correct, given the hawk eye of the information and broadcasting ministry and other agencies at play in all such transactions.

Pfetcher also says the NYT was unfair in its report: "PSF has never received any funding, nor taken direction from any foreign individual, organisation, political party, or government." He added that NYT "failed to include" this denial of foreign funding and left readers to believe that the source of PSF's funding "might have come from China, rather than from the sale of ThoughtWorks". The statement further said, "Their salacious headlines and misleading 'reporting' have now directly contributed to the arrest of innocent journalists."

The Enforcement Directorate also accuses NewsClick of downgrading the Indian government's anti-Covid efforts, of possessing emails that intended to show Kashmir and Arunachal Pradesh as disputed territories in relation to China, and of actively aiding the recent farmers' agitation.

These are allegations. Proving any of these illegal will not be easy in a fair trial. And none of it justifies, until proven, arrests and jailing, unless India is already a closed society and patriotism is solely seen as a means of retributive punishment to those critical of the government, whose priorities keep changing. For example, prior to 2014, would China have been so dreadful an untouchable as it is now? Recall the Sabarmati scene from September 17, 2014, when Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Chinese President Xi Jinping shared a swing.

Despite the relationship heading south since then, China has still not been declared an enemy state. During the BRICS summit in August, the Indian prime minister and the Chinese president met on the sidelines and discussed border and trade issues. Last week India came back from the Asian Games held in China with 107 medals; never mind that China amassed 382, surely a lesser number to a patriot.

The real question is whether India is an open society or not. If it is, alternative histories and notions of social and political justice must be discussed, not stifled in the name of patriotism. If it is hurting national interests, the wrong-doers must be subject to a fair law. There has to be a process. In not adhering to one, we are actually following in the bloody footsteps of Mao.

India's strategy

Ref: Senseless Hamas massacre harms its cause in Israel (Oct 9). The attack comes just weeks after Benjamin Netanyahu spoke about normalising ties with Arab countries. Israel is right in retaliating as it has to protect its sovereignty and its people. But regional conflicts are bound to increase. Resolve conflict

Instead of arming Israel, the US and their allies must immediately use their influence to end the conflict. The Palestinians have always faced restrictions. Unless the West Bank is returned to them, there will not be any peace in the Middle East. Every positive initiative gets derailed by successive administrations, taking the situation back to square one. The Israel government's capacity to extract revenge is limitless and ruthless. Many innocent civilians will die if this armed conflict escalates further.

JD(U) leader K C Tyagi says most Oppn parties want a nationwide caste census

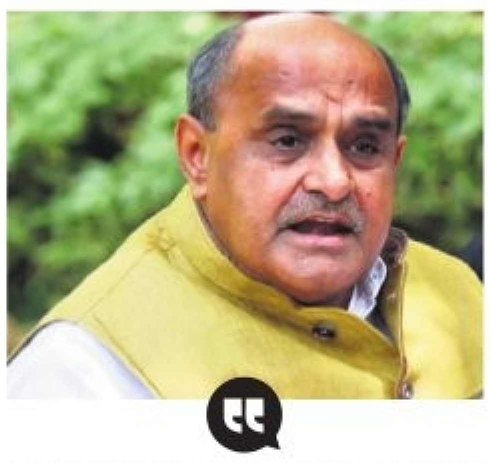
‘Our politics revolves around social justice, BJP on back foot’

K C Tyagi, special advisor and chief spokesperson of Janata Dal (United), spoke to Preetha Nair about the political implications of the recently published caste survey. Excerpts:

Bihar is the first state to conduct a caste survey and release its results. What are the implications?
Chief Minister Nitish Kumar has consistently championed social justice. A majority of opposition parties, as well as NDA allies, support a nationwide census following Bihar's survey. The upcoming state elections will primarily revolve around the caste census, setting the tone for the 2024 Lok Sabha election. CM's of Congress-ruled Rajasthan and Chhattisgarh have also announced their intention to conduct caste surveys. If Congress succeeds in Madhya Pradesh, they will follow suit. In Telangana, both Congress and the ruling BRS government favor caste surveys. BJP is on a back foot. They are going to lose all the elections.

Prime Minister Modi said that poverty is the biggest caste in India, and Opposition parties are trying to divide society.
We strongly oppose the Prime Minister's statement, where he claims discrimination based on his backward caste. India is undoubtedly a caste-based society, and reservation policies aim to ensure adequate representation for backward classes. The Mandal Commission used caste as a criterion for reservation. However, we disagree with the PM's notion that poverty transcends caste, although poverty exists across all castes..

The demand for a caste census is being seen as Mandal vs. Kamandal politics.
I would say that we are advocating for the politics of social justice. In Bihar, this isn't just a caste census; it also records economic and social conditions. The Prime Minister makes statements to divert attention from real issues. The BJP claims to have 27% backward caste ministers in their cabinet and 86 OBC MPs, but they have backtracked now. Nitish Kumar's caste survey has disrupted the BJP's 2024 plans. Even the UP and Bihar allies of the NDA have demanded a caste census. So, the BJP is isolated within the NDA, as all political outfits in the country favor caste-based population counting.



Chief Minister Nitish Kumar has consistently championed social justice. A majority of opposition parties, as well as NDA allies, support a nationwide census following Bihar's survey

K.C. Tyagi, Chief spokesperson, Janata Dal (United)

There is a fear that the demand for a caste census will bring back Mandal politics.
It's not the same as in 1990 when PM V.P. Singh accepted the Mandal Commission report, which recommended 27% reservation for OBC candidates at all levels of services. The landscape has completely changed since then. The then BJP President L.K. Advani started the rath yatra to capitalize on protests against the reservation bill. Late Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi made a scathing speech in Lok Sabha against reservation. However, in 1992, the Supreme Court gave a landmark judgment that caste could be a factor in identifying backward classes and recognized the validity of 27% reservation.

South will be severely affected by the loss of 100 seats in the 2026 delimitation exercise due to proportional population rights?
Reports suggest the government plans to fix a population of 20 lakh people for one constituency after delimitation. If this happens, Southern states will lose Lok Sabha seats due to their lower population. Largely populated North Indian states will benefit with more seats. Hence, there should be a mechanism to address the issue.

The PM also raised the issue of minority rights not being protected in the caste survey:
The Mandal Commission has adequately provided quotas for 90% of Muslims belonging to the backward class. Therefore, the PM's statement is incorrect.

The BJP says that CM Nitish Kumar is trying to appease OBC Kurmi caste, to which he belongs.
This is false. Nitish Kumar advocates for EBC, BC, and other sections of society. He has made numerous efforts in the past to conduct a caste survey. In 2018 and 2020, the state assembly passed unanimous resolutions in favor of a caste census. Two years ago, when an all-party delegation met the PM along with BJP leaders, he expressed his inability to conduct a caste survey. However, the Nitish Kumar government announced its commitment to the plan. Bihar was the first state to implement the Karpoori Thakur formula of sub-quosta within the OBC quota in 1978, providing reservations for Extremely Backward Castes and Backward Caste women in government jobs and educational institutions.

Verbatim

BJP's Sushil Kumar Modi says party has always backed idea of such a survey

‘Many castes feel cheated, see a new scam after Bihar survey’

SENIOR BJP leader and former deputy chief minister of Bihar Sushil Kumar Modi sees a well-crafted political ‘khela’ (game) behind Bihar's caste-based survey report released on October 2. He believes that except for a few castes, known for their association with power, others are feeling cheated. In an interview with Rajesh Kumar Thakur, he explains his version of Bihar's caste census report as well as the latest act on women's reservation. Excerpts:

How do you see the recent caste-based survey report in Bihar?
Most castes in Bihar have no trust in the figures enumerated in the report. They feel cheated and see ‘khela’ (game) done in this. They also suspect a new “census scam”. Barring a few special castes that are directly or indirectly associated with power, the other castes have merely been managed in figures, ignoring their existing population. There is no doubt when the decision to conduct the caste survey was taken in the state assembly, the BJP supported it. But when it was hijacked for political gains, it brought in many flaws. We demand a review on the ground level.

It is believed that the JD(U)-led government played the OBC card against the BJP-led NDA ahead of 2024 parliamentary polls…
The OBCs and other marginalised sections of the country, including Bihar, trust in the leadership of PM Narendra Modi. The PM himself comes from the OBC community, and there is no bigger leader in the country than him. No one has done as much work for the welfare of OBCs in 75 years as Modi has done in nine years. The highest number of ministers, 27, is now in the Modi government, the OBC Commission has got a constitutional shape and many schemes have been launched for them. As many as 85 out of 303 BJP MPs are OBCs, 27% of BJP's 1,358 MLAs are also from OBCs and 40% of our 163 legislative council members are from the community. Where do opposition parties, including Congress, stand vis-à-vis OBCs? The survey is done without a scientific study of caste configuration. We demand a review of the survey process.

Most castes in Bihar have no trust in the figures enumerated in the report. Barring a few special castes that are associated with power, others have merely been managed in figures, ignoring their existing population

Sushil Kumar Modi, senior BJP leader

Can you cite an instance that shows injustice being done to some castes in the report?
One can figure out many instances. The figures of some castes such as the Vaishya and Nishad have been shown by breaking them into 8-10 sub-castes, so that they don't realise their political power. The population of the Vaishya community in Bihar is more than 9.5% but this was not recorded in the survey and figures of sub-castes were hidden to inflate the number of caste-religion people who are with present government.

Opposition parties accuse the BJP of being anti-caste survey. Is it right?
This is a lie being spread to mislead the people the way the RJD and other parties have been doing for decades through their casteist-politics. One must remember that when the decision was taken, all parties agreed on it (caste survey) and the decision was taken during the time of our party government. The BJP has always supported the decision of any state government to conduct such a survey on its own. A part of survey carried on 17 points has not been made public. Why hasn't the government made the report public at panchayat level?

Do you think the Opposition will try to ‘mandalise’ the country in the run-up to 2024 polls?
It cannot be an issue, but a political ploy of the Opposition, which has no issue except to survive by creating a false narrative. What they say and what they do has been exposed in the present era of developmental politics heralded by PM Modi.

The Opposition alleges the government got the women's reservation bill passed in the House keeping in view the 2024 elections. It says the government is not implementing it until 2029…
The passage of the Nari Shakti Vandan Adhiniyam was a historic moment. The Opposition wants the Bill to get struck over legal issues by calling its immediate implementation. The women of the country know that the Bill will be implemented with full legal force by 2029. There is a way to implement it. Without conducting the census, the government cannot decide how many and which seats will be reserved for women. And delimitation is needed for fair and transparent implementation.

Cong vows support to Palestinians

PREETHA NAIR @New Delhi

EXPRESSING concern over the loss of lives due to the Israel-Hamas conflict, the Congress Working Committee (CWC) on Monday reiterated its long-standing support for the rights of the Palestinian people to land, self-government, and to live with dignity and respect.

“The CWC calls for an immediate cease-fire and for negotiations to begin on all outstanding issues including the imperative issues that have given rise to the present conflict,” it said in a statement.

“The CWC expresses its dismay and anguish on the war that has broken out in the Middle East where over a thousand people have been killed in the last two days,” said the resolution.

The four-hour-long CWC meeting was presided over by Congress chief Mallikarjun Kharge. Senior leaders Sonia Gandhi, Rahul Gandhi, and Priyanka Gandhi also attended the meeting.

Uncertainty over Sunak's India visit

YESHI SELI @New Delhi

RECENTLY, the 13th round of India-UK Free Trade Agreement talks saw the conclusion of 21 out of the 26 chapters that were being negotiated between the two nations. The 14th round is taking place in Delhi at present, which is reportedly being attended by a 30-member UK delegation.

All this has led to speculation that British Prime Minister Rishi Sunak would be in Delhi on October 28 to sign the FTA. However, that is subject to the conclusion of trade talks.

“There are a few more chapters that need to be concluded. Trade talks are based on many discussions and it is not fair to give a deadline. However, things are moving in the right direction,'' said a source familiar with the talks.

It is learnt that the PMO is also in the process of taking a call on the possible conclusion of these trade talks.

PM Sunak, if he travels to India, is said to be considering travelling to Lucknow on October 29 to attend the India-England cricket match.

No finality yet on British PM Rishi Sunak's India visit. It may depend on whether both sides are able to finalise

WHAT'S DONE, ALMOST
India and the UK have reportedly finalised around 21 of the 26 chapters in the FTA

“The 13th round of the India-UK FTA has just concluded. As many as 21 out of the 26 chapters have been closed. The issues that are still being negotiated include social security, duties on agro products, duties on whisky, electrical vehicles, labour and environment gradation system, besides investment protection,'' said a source.

The present round of talks will also focus on “the rules of origin.” Under this provision, a country that has inked an FTA with India cannot dump goods from some third country in the Indian market by putting a label on it. It has to undertake a prescribed value addition in that product to export to India. Rules of origin norms help contain the dumping of goods.

The Bilateral Investment Treaty (BIT) is being negotiated as a separate agreement between the two sides. The BITs help in promoting and protecting investments in each other's countries. These investment treaties help in promoting and protecting investments in each other's country. The main point of contention involved in this pact is about the mechanism for the settlement of disputes.

The negotiations between India and the UK are crucial not only for the India-UK FTA but are also likely to be considered for the ongoing India-EU FTA.

Free trade agreements are designed to ease the flow of goods and services between countries by simplifying and/or lowering import tariffs. They typically have the impact of lowering the prices of imported goods for the end user.

Sunak visited India last month to attend the G20 Summit. On the sidelines of the summit, Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Sunak held bilateral talks. In the talks, Modi and Sunak reviewed the progress of the FTA negotiations and expressed the hope that the remaining issues could be addressed at the earliest so that a balanced, mutually beneficial and forward-looking trade deal is concluded soon.

India gets 5th set of Swiss bank account details

MONIKA YADAV @New Delhi

INDIA has obtained the fifth set of Swiss bank account details as part of the annual automatic information exchange framework between India and Switzerland.

Swiss authorities have shared information on approximately 3.6 million financial accounts with 104 countries, including India.

In a statement issued on Monday, the Federal Tax Administration (FTA) of Switzerland said that it has sent information on around 3.6 million financial accounts to the partner states and received information on around 2.9 financial accounts from them.

India and Switzerland entered into an automatic tax-related information sharing agreement from 1 January 2018. The first set of information was received by India in September 2019.

However, Swiss authorities refrained from disclosing the specific amount involved in the shared information. Though they confirmed that the new details provided to Indian authorities involve “hundreds of financial accounts.” These accounts comprise multiple instances associated with individuals, corporations, and trusts.

“The FTA cannot provide any information on the amount of financial assets. Switzerland has committed itself to adopting the global standard for the international automatic exchange of information in tax matters. The legal basis for the implementation of the AEOI in Switzerland came into force on 1 January 2017,” FTA said in a statement.

CWC resolution: Caste census to set new development model in country

PREETHA NAIR @New Delhi

THE Congress Working Committee on Monday passed a unanimous resolution for conducting the caste census across the country, which it said, would set a new paradigm of development.

Former Congress president Rahul Gandhi said at a presser that the Congress-ruled states of Rajasthan, Karnataka, Chhattisgarh, and Himachal Pradesh will hold caste census in their respective states.

Presided over by party chief Mallikarjun Kharge, the four-hour CWC meeting was attended by all party chief ministers. Most constituents of the INDIA bloc support the idea of caste census, said Rahul.

“Most parties in the INDIA alliance are unanimous that the caste census should be implemented. There might be a few, who have a slightly different position and that's fine, we are quite flexible, not fascist,”' he added. The Wayanad MP asserted that his party would force the Prime Minister to conduct the caste census or make him get out of the way.

Describing ‘caste census’ as a ‘progressive and powerful step for the emancipation of the poor, the senior Congress leader said it would set a new paradigm of development in the country as it will establish the actual status of the OBCs, Dalits, the Adivasis and the poor.

“Today, two Indias are being created — one for the Adanis and the other for everyone. The caste census will clearly show the kind of people and the number of people in India. This is not a matter of caste or religion, it is a matter of poverty.”

He said that a new political and economic model would be built in the country based on the caste census. He said that out of four Congress CMs, three were OBCs, while out of 10 BJP CMs, only one was an OBC and even he will cease to be the CM very soon, referring to Shivraj Singh Chouhan.

Bilkis case: Hearing on remission pleas adjourned

JAISON WILSON @New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Monday adjourned to October 11 the final hearing on pleas challenging the remission granted last year to all the 11 convicts in the gang-rape case of Bilkis Bano and the murder of seven of her family members during the 2002 Gujarat riots.

A bench of Justices B V Nagarathna and Ujjal Bhuyan said the apex court has received written submissions of the petitioners and they have been taken on record. The court will conclude the hearing of the matter on the same day.

Eleven convicts were prematurely released on August 15, 2022, following a decision by the Gujarat government. While taking the batch of pleas challenging their release, the top court said it was only considering the “correctness” of the Gujarat government's decision to release the convicts early.

Last month, the apex court observed whether the persons convicted in the Bilkis Bano case had the privilege of being released on parole for several days and several times.

The top court had on August 17 said state governments should not be selective in granting remission to convicts and the opportunity to reform and reintegrate with society should be given to every prisoner.

The Gujarat government had defended its decision of premature release of all convicts.

Bilkis Bano was 21 years old and five months pregnant when she was gang-raped while fleeing the communal riots that broke out in the state of Gujarat after the Godhra train-burning incident.

Her three-year-old daughter was among the seven family members killed by a mob during the riots.

NCP MP gets top court relief in attempt to murder case

JAISON WILSON @New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Monday stayed the Kerala High Court order refusing to suspend the conviction of Lakshadweep MP Mohammed Faizal in an attempt to murder case, allowing the Nationalist Congress Party (NCP) leader to continue as a Member of Parliament from the island constituency.

A bench of Justices Hrishikesh Roy and Sanjay Karol issued notice returnable in four weeks on Faizal's appeal challenging the October 3 high court order, ordering his post as the Lok Sabha member to become ‘operational.’ Earlier, the top court temporarily protected Faizal's status as MP and remanded the case back to the HC to decide it afresh.

On January 11, Kavaratti session court convicted Faizal and three others for attempting to murder Padanath Salih, the son-in-law of ex-minister and Congress leader, PM Sayeed, in connection to a controversy during the 2009 Lok Sabha elections.

Senior advocate Kapil Sibal, on behalf of Faizal, argued that it was a fight between the Congress and the NCP workers, the witnesses were all Congress workers and no Independent. There was no weapon of offence in the FIR initially but was introduced later, Sibal stated.

Elections to five states across the country in November are considered semi-final before 2024 Lok Sabha polls

WELCOME TO FESTIVAL OF DEMOCRACY

BJP puts 7 MPs into Raj poll arena to capture desert state

RAJESH ASNANI @ Jaipur

FOLLOWING the announcement of the Rajasthan Assembly election dates, the BJP has promptly unveiled its initial list of candidates. The list comprises 41 contenders, with an inclusion of seven MPs on the lines of the BJP decision in neighbouring Madhya Pradesh.

In a substantial reshuffling of candidates, the BJP has made some prominent changes to its roster. Rajpal Singh Shekhawat 'has failed to get the nomination from Jhotwara; the party has instead chosen Lok Sabha MP Rajyavardhan Singh Rathore.

Similarly, Narpat Singh Rajvi, who is the son-in-law of former Vice President Bhairo Singh Shekhawat, has been denied the Vidhyadhar Nagar ticket, which has now been given to MP Diya Kumari.

Of particular significance is the candidature of Rathore, the current MP from Jaipur Rural, who earlier served as the Information and Broadcasting Minister during the Modi government's previous term. On the other hand, Diya Kumari, an MP from Rajsamand and a member of the former royal family of Jaipur, has been entrusted with a crucial role.

Rajya Sabha MP Kirori Lal Meena has been named as a BJP candidate, along with Lok Sabha MP Balaknath from Tijara (Alwar), MP Bhagirath Chaudhary from Kishangarh (Ajmer), MP Narendra Kumar from Mandawa (Jhunjhunu), and MP Devji Patel from Sanchore.

However, it is surprising that the first list of candidates does not include prominent leaders such as former CM Vasundhara Raje, leader of the Opposition Rajendra Rathod, and deputy leader of the Opposition Satish Poonia. The BJP's stance on these influential figures has sparked curiosity and discussion within the Rajasthan political landscape.

Rajasthan's Assembly elections are scheduled to take place on November 23, with the results set to be disclosed on December 3. Meanwhile, the polling day in Rajasthan coincides with Dev Uthani Ekadashi, an auspicious occasion when more than 50,000 weddings are likely to take place in the state, and people involved in the business claim that this could hurt voting percentage.

BJP ends suspense over Chouhan, fields him for 6th time from Budhni

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bhopal

THE ruling BJP in Madhya Pradesh ended the uncertainty about whether its longest serving CM Shivraj Singh Chouhan will contest the polls. Having already named candidates for 79 out of the total 230 seats in the last two months, the ruling party released its fourth list of 57 candidates, which included Shivraj Singh Chouhan from his home seat Budhni in Sehore district for the sixth time.

With this, the BJP put to rest speculation, including the possibility of Chouhan, either not contesting the next month's elections or being shifted from his pocket borough to a challenging seat. Chouhan won his home seat five times, including four times in a row (1990, 2006, 2008, 2013 and 2018). Political circles were abuzz with possibilities of the five-time former Vidisha MP either being fielded in the 2024 Lok Sabha polls or else being shifted to a challenging seat in the assembly polls.

Even the CM during his recent speech in Dindori district had asked people whether he should contest the assembly polls. The speculation appeared to gain strength after the party named seven of its sitting MPs (including three Union ministers) as candidates in its second list for assembly polls, released on September 25. Five of those sitting MPs, including two Union ministers and the party's national general secretary Kailash Vijayvargiya, have been fielded from assembly seats that the BJP had lost by considerable margins in 2018.

Monday's 57-candidate list not only featured the CM but also included his 24 cabinet colleagues. The party continued to show trust in many ministers who, as per party's internal surveys, are said to be facing high anti-incumbency or have crossed 70 years of age. The fourth list also included the names of Jyotiraditya Scindia-loyalist ministers and MLAs, including Govind Singh Rajput, Dr Prabhuram Chowdhary and Rajvardhan Singh Dattigaon, among others.

The process to hold free and fair polls started six months ago during which officials made several visits to the poll-bound states. Electoral rolls were revised and special emphasis was given to ensure a healthy and an inclusive electoral roll, according to the Election Commission of India

Maoist threat: Cong, BJP in direct fight in 2-phase polls

EJAZ KAISER @ Raipur

IN Chhattisgarh, it is a direct contest between the ruling Congress and opposition BJP. The state will have a two-phase polling on November 7 and November 17 for the 90-member House. Chhattisgarh has a two-phase election, considering the Maoist threat perception and inhospitable terrain. Chhattisgarh Chief Electoral Officer Reena Babasaheb Kangale said in the first phase the polling will be held in 20 assembly constituencies while the remaining 70 seats will be covered in the second phase.

The political parties in Chhattisgarh have geared-up with their poll-related exercises like selection process of candidates, rallies, publicity and getting active on social media platforms.

The opposition BJP declared its first list of 21 candidates on August 17. It has come out with second list of 64 candidates, including three sitting MPs. The AAP that failed to win a single seat in 2018 polls cleared the first list of 10 candidates. The Congress, which is striving for the second term, is yet to announce any candidate. The ruling party apparently is banking on various populist schemes besides the regionalism as a response to BJP nationalism plank.

Over 16 crore voters in 5 states will elect new govts

PARVEZ SULTAN @ New Delhi

FIVE states —Rajasthan, Madhya Pradesh, Chhattisgarh, Telangana and Mizoram — will vote for a new government in November as the Election Commission of India (ECI) on Monday announced the assembly election schedule.

Chief election commissioner Rajiv Kumar said that except in Chhattisgarh, polling in other states would be held in a single phase. Electorates in Madhya Pradesh will exercise their franchise on November17, while Rajasthan will vote on November 23.

Telangana goes to polls on November 30. Polling in Mizoram will be on November 7. In Chhattisgarh, election is scheduled on November 7 and November 17. In total, 679 assembly constituencies will go to the polls in which 16.14 crore electorate — about one sixth of the total voting population— will participate.

With the announcement of election schedule, the model code of conduct (MCC) has come into effect. With just a few months left to 2024 Lok Sabha elections, the assembly elections will be watched closely by all stakeholders. The election in states will not only shape up the political landscape at the state level but are likely to have an impact on national politics. The results may lead to new strategic alignment and alliances of political parties. The polls are crucial contests as the BJP will make bid for their third consecutive government.

Zoramthanga plays tribal card, in driver's seat

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @ Guwahati

MIZORAM chief minister Zoramthanga's decision to provide shelter to over 50,000 fleeing Zo tribals from Manipur, Myanmar and Bangladesh may yield a rich political dividend for his Mizo National Front (MNF) in the November 7 state election.

The Election Commission of India announced the poll date on Monday, but the MNF started the groundwork two years ago when Chin refugees from Myanmar began fleeing to Mizoram in the face of a crackdown by the military in that country against pro-democracy forces.

Over 35,000 of them were given shelter. Next, some 2,000 Kuki-Chin tribals from Bangladesh crossed over while fleeing an armed conflict between Bangladesh Rapid Action Force and an ethnic insurgent group. Despite the burden of such a large number of refugees, Mizoram embraced over 12,000 displaced Kukis from ethnic violence-hit Manipur. Zoramthanga, a former rebel leader-turned-politician, could realise that MNF could win the hearts of Mizos by providing warmth to these displaced tribals, who are divided by inter-state and international borders. Mizo, Kuki, Zomi, Hmar, Chin and Kuki-Chin tribals are ethnic cousins, belonging to Zo community.

Ex-minister asks farmers to spit on officer's face

Former Bihar agriculture minister Sudhakar Singh has once again courted controversy as he advised farmers to spit on the face of an officer if he doesn't do his work. If the central government could bow to farmers' demands, why not state government, he remarked. He made the comment while speaking at Kisan Mahapanchayat in Kaimur district recently. Not only this, Singh even said that the officers should be garlanded with shoes and not flowers. Singh also took a dig at chief minister Nitish Kumar, stating that only one person has been in power from the past 18 years.

Schoolkids learn empathy in Jharkhand

MUKESH RANJAN @ Ranchi

TO provide social and emotional support to children in government schools, the Jharkhand government has introduced Harsh-Johar curriculum in 121 schools all over the state.

The curriculum has been developed in two parts – one for Classes 1-5 and another for 6-10. It has initially been implemented in 121 schools. Under this scheme, a special session of 20 minutes is held under which children attend activities under different curriculum like empathy and sympathy. Two teachers from each school have been trained for the purpose. According to State Programme Officer (Quality Education) at Jharkhand Education Project Council, Abhinav Kumar, the feedback is very encouraging as it has brought drastic change in the attitude of the children.

"One will have to ensure the socio-emotional learning quotient and provide social emotional support in schools," Kumar.

Gujarat BJP MP calls politics a 'biz'

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA
@ Ahmedabad

PUTTING the ruling Bharatiya Janata Party in a "difficult spot", Bharatsinh Dabhi, the party's MP from Gujarat's Patan, has alleged that all his businesses went in loss and were finally closed except politics.

Addressing an event at Hemchandracharya University in Patan district on the upcoming Vibrant summit in Gujarat, Dabhi, in the presence of several ministers, leaders, and industrialists, said he had started 26 businesses but had to close all owing to losses in every business, except his "political businesses" which went successful.

"It happens...... I have also tried my hand in 26 businesses but all closed, but this [politics] has gone well, from Sarpanch to Parliament, I have no problem now," he said.

"If you want to do business, you must utlise time, and if you don't, it will take its toll, as mine did," he added.

The opposition Congress was quick to take on the BJP over its MP's remarks. Gujarat Congress spokesperson Manish Doshi alleged, "What BJP MP has said is not limited to him as politics has been a business for BJP for years. Though Bharatsinh Dabhi says that his business is running well from sarpanch to MP, he is still far behind other BJP leaders in earnings."

"The BJP has made politics its business. This is BJP's business model that was presented on a public forum by one of its leaders," he alleged further and claimed that the saffron party "taking politics as a business has been destructing the democracy in the country".

This newspaper attempted to contact the BJP MP for his comment but received no response.

As part of the 20th anniversary of the Vibrant Summit in Gujarat slated in 2024, the state government has been organising events under the Vibrant Gujarat-Vibrant District program since October 2. The events will be conducted in all 33 districts till October 31.

'Politics is business'

Training guns at the ruling Bharatiya Janata Party Gujarat, opposition state Congress spokesperson Manish Doshi alleged that the saffron party's MP has confessed that "politics is business". It is this business model with is been presented to the people of the country by the BJP and is not confined to one of its MPs but the whole party which has destroyed the democracy, the grand-old party further alleged. The events will be conducted in all 33 districts and towns till October 31.

India a rising hub for science research, says Springer Nature CEO

HRITHIK KIRAN BAGADE & PURAN CHOUDHARY @ Bengaluru

SCIENTIFIC research is growing rapidly in India, with Indian researchers making a big mark in several areas. "India is a very important market for science and research publication, given that 25% of our workforce is based here," Springer Nature Group CEO Frank Vrancken Peeters told TNIE on Monday.

In the recent past, India's science potential was on full-display in the realms of vaccine development during the Covid pandemic, and with ISRO's successful Chandrayaan-3 and Aditya L-1 missions. Nonetheless, funding in the country continues to be a weak spot. Peeters, however, added that funding has been steadily improving, given the country's growing scientific temperament – especially in the areas of Applied Science and Technology.

"There is no knowledge gap between Indian researchers and those in other countries, and we've seen an uptick in investments in all types of research," he mentioned.

Springer Nature has had a profound impact on the global research community with a mission to expedite solutions to address pressing global challenges in different fields. The group publishes over 4,00,000 articles and releases more than 13,000 new books annually.

Meanwhile, India's announcement of the Anusandhan (innovation) National Research Foundation – which aims to inject over $6 billion into basic and applied research for five years -- is seen as playing a crucial role in improving the country's contribution to science.

Speaking about the fast-paced world marked by technological advancements, scientific breakthroughs, and rampant misinformation on different social media channels, Peeters said, "Stakeholders are now looking for trusted brands and content, which are transparent and accurate. It has become crucial now more than ever that legacy research publications help highlight global problems." He added that the recent Nobel Prizes are an excellent example of the recognition scientists are getting for their work.

Emphasising the need to achieve Sustainable Development Goals, he said countries need to have dedicated research funds to foster science in all walks of life. Springer Nature envisions that with the scientific revolution taking shape in many countries, governments need to be extra cautious of the information being disseminated. "In fact, to improve scientific knowledge in children, parents should play an active role," stated Peeters.

The group employs about 10,000 globally, of whom 2,500 are based in India, primarily at their Pune and Delhi centres.

Open-air Tribe of Nova music festival will go down as worst civilian massacre in Israeli history; militants attacked festival-goers for six hours; toll may rise

Traditional Palestine backer UAE condemns abductions by Hamas

DUBAI: The United Arab Emirates and Bahrain have condemned the abduction of Israeli civilians by Hamas during its assault on Israel, calling for diplomatic efforts to stop the fighting. The Arab Muslim countries both established relations with Israel in 2020 as part of the US-brokered Abraham Accords. Their statements came after at least 100 hostages were seized in Saturday's assault which left more than 700 people dead in Israel and triggered reprisal air strikes which have killed over 560 in Gaza. "The ministry stressed that attacks by Hamas against Israeli towns and villages near the Gaza Strip, including the firing of thousands of rockets at population centres, are a serious and grave escalation," the UAE's foreign ministry said in a statement late on Sunday. "The ministry is appalled by reports that Israeli civilians have been abducted as hostages from their homes." AFP

JERUSALEM

THE night was a getaway. Thousands of young men and women gathered at a vast field in southern Israel near the Gaza border to dance without a care. Old and new friends jumped up and down, reveling the swirl of the bass-heavy beats.

The open-air Tribe of Nova music festival will go down in Israeli history as the country's worst civilian massacre. Dozens of Hamas militants who had blown through Israel's heavily fortified separation fence and crossed into the country from Gaza opened fire on young Israelis who had come together for a joyous night of electronic music. Some attendees were drunk or high on drugs, magnifying their confusion and terror.

"We were hiding and running, hiding and running, in an open field, the worst place you could possibly be in that situation," said Arik Nani from Tel Aviv, who had gone to the party to celebrate his 26th birthday. "For a country where everyone in these circles knows everyone, this is a trauma like I could never imagine."

While rockets rained down, revelers said militants converged on the open field while others waited near bomb shelters, gunning down people who were seeking refuge.

The staggering toll of the festival was becoming clear early Monday, as Israel's rescue service Zaka said paramedics had recovered at least 260 bodies. Festival organisers said they were helping Israeli security forces locate attendees who were still missing. The death toll could rise as teams continue to clear the area.

"I can't even explain the energy they (the militants) had, it was so clear they didn't see us as human beings," Maya Alper, one of the festival-goers said. "They looked at us with pure, pure hate," she said.

For over six hours, Alper — and thousands of other concert attendees — hid without help from the Israeli army as Hamas militants sprayed automatic gunfire and threw grenades.

"They butchered people in cold blood, in an inconceivable way," an Israeli volunteer said, detailing that many victims had been shot in the head at close range.

Hamas threatens to kill hostages if Israel targets Gaza civilians

DOHA

PALESTINIAN militant group Hamas threatened on Monday to kill hostages if the Israeli army carried out air strikes without prior warning targeting residents of Gaza. "Every targeting of our people without warning will be met with the execution of one of the civilian hostages," the Ezzedine al-Qassem Brigades, the armed wing of Hamas, said in a statement.

"The enemy doesn't understand the language of humanity and ethics, so we'll address them in the language that they understand."

Hamas also said it is not open to negotiating a prisoner exchange with Israel during hostilities, a member of the militants' political office in Doha said.

"The military operation is still continuing... therefore there is currently no chance for negotiation on the issue of prisoners or anything else," Hossam Badran, a Hamas official, told AFP from Doha.

"Our mission now is to make every effort to prevent the occupation from continuing to commit massacres against our people, which directly target civilian homes," he said. Israel has said it is working to free at least 100 people kidnapped as Hamas militants stormed the Gaza border on Saturday, shooting people in several nearby communities and towns.

Previous conflicts between Hamas and Israel have ended through mediation by powers with a keen interest in Middle East peace but the unprecedented nature of the assault by the Palestinian militant group could make any diplomatic efforts fruitless, analysts say.

Israel-Palestine tension may disrupt trade

Immediate impact of the conflict could be oil imports from the region, leading to higher crude prices and inflation

DIPAK MONDAL @New Delhi

THE Israel-Palestine conflict could further weaken economic sentiments in the country.

The situation in West Asia not only threatens to disrupt trade and supply chains, but also leads to higher inflation and weakening of government finances.

The immediate impact could be oil imports from the region leading to high crude oil prices. On Monday, Brent Crude prices touched a high of $89 a barrel, up from $84.58 level on Friday. The equity markets reacted negatively, even if the fall on Monday was not as large as was expected. Benchmark indices – Sensex and Nifty – fell by over 0.7% on Monday. Gold prices also soared as investors looking for safe haven started buying gold. MCX Gold December future surged ₹494 to ₹57,365 per 10 gm.

The government, though, is putting up a brave face amid the uncertainty. "The ongoing conflict between Israel and Palestine will not create an energy issue for India, and the country will navigate through it", said Petroleum Minister Hardeep Singh Puri on Monday.

A commerce ministry official on the condition of anonymity said that no formal discussion has taken place on the issue yet.

Though India's total merchandise trade with Israel was only $11 billion, which is less than one per cent of India's total trade, West Asia accounts for 20% of India's total trade. Three of the top five crude oil suppliers to India – Iraq, Saudi Arabia and UAE – are from this region. They accounted for almost 50% of the country's oil imports in 2022-23.

Dr Ajay Sahai, director general & CEO, Federation of Indian Export Organisations (FIEO), a trade promotion organisation under the Ministry of Commerce and Industry, said if tension escalates into war with some Middle East countries and large powers siding with Hamas, this will be a huge setback for the world as the world can ill-afford two wars at the same time.

"Freight cost will go up with limited fleet availability, rising insurance and related risks, the flight of the capital from countries to safe heaven will result in dollar appreciation and uncertainty will slow down the trade as well," said Sahai.

Analysts also expect some disruption in supply of raw diamond as Israel is an important supplier and with Russia already cut from the market due to sanctions.

Monitoring situation in Haifa port: Adanis

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @New Delhi

SHARES of Adani Port & SEZ (APSEZ) fell over 5% on Monday as the billionaire Gautam Adani-promoted company has business interest in Israel.

The company had acquired Haifa port in northern Israel earlier this year for $1.18 billion. Adani Ports share closed the Monday session at ₹788.50 apiece, down 5.09% from the previous closing. "We are monitoring the action on ground, which is concentrated in South Israel, whereas Haifa port is situated in the North. We have taken measures to ensure safety of our employees and all of them are safe. We remain fully alert and prepared," said a Adani Port spokesperson.

Yellow metal rebounds, spot gold price gains 1%

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @Chennai

THE conflict between Israel and Palestine lifted the gold prices on Monday, with spot gold (XAU) gaining 1% to settle at $1,847.47 an ounce as it is considered the safe haven asset.

The US gold futures also jumped 1% to $1,863.40 on Monday. In the domestic market, spot prices for 24 carat gold jumped ₹220 to ₹58,200 per 10 gm, while MCX Gold December future surged ₹494 on Monday to ₹57,365 per 10 gm.

Gold market made a sharp rebound from a seven-month low last Friday at $1,832.26 per ounce. Earlier it was facing pressure from higher interest rates and a stronger-than-expected job report in the US, which could lead to higher Fed policy rate cycles. Recent geopolitical risks in the Middle-East, with the potential for further escalation into a war, has helped gold in the short term.

As per Kotak Securities, though headwinds persist from higher rates in the short term, US consumer inflation data will be in spotlight for the week, which might provide more insights on how long rates are going to stay higher. "Geo -political concerns raise the risk premium for the safe haven yellow metal. Tensions in the Middle-East ramped up in the wake of Hamas attack on Israel, with alleged Iranian involvement raising concerns of a regional conflict. The impact might fade away and be minimal if it is limited to Israel and Palestine," the report noted. The oil prices have risen and demand for government bonds, US dollar.

GEOPOLITICAL uncertainties drag equity mkt down

ARSHAD KHAN @New Delhi

Domestic equity market reeled under pressure on Monday on fears of rising oil prices as violence escalated between Israel and Palestine in the Middle Eastern region.

Market participants fear that a rise in oil prices will not only push India's inflation rate higher but might also prompt the RBI to keep the interest rate at a higher level.

This will negatively impact the Indian market as the hawkish stance maintained by the US Federal Reserve recently led to a substantial pullout by foreign institution investors (FIIs) from equities to safer avenues such as government bonds and gold. The BSE Sensex fell over 500 points to touch a low of 65,435 while the broader NSE Nifty50 fell more than 150 points to hit an intraday low of 19,480. At the day's close, Sensex was down 483 points at 65,512 while Nifty shed 141 points to end at 19,512.

Investors lost nearly ₹4 lakh crore on Monday as the market capitalisation of all BSE-listed firms came down to ₹316 lakh crore from ₹319.9 lakh crore. Broader markets underperformed benchmark indices as the BSE midcap index dropped over a per cent, while the BSE smallcap index shed about 2%.

Shrikant Chouhan, Head of Research (Retail), Kotak Securities, said that Investors dumped equity assets as they turned risk off on concerns that a faceoff between Israel and Hamas could further deteriorate the global economy already reeling under higher interest rates and stubbornly high inflation.

"There are concerns that since most of the oil producing nations are close to the conflict zone, a prolonged war could trigger an upsurge in international crude oil prices. With a fresh surge in crude oil prices, higher oil import bill going ahead would stoke domestic inflation and prompt the central bank to take a hawkish stance. With investors preferring gold and dollar assets in times of uncertainty, local stocks across the board came under severe hammering even as indices in the Asian region ended mixed," added Chouhan. Global oil benchmark Brent crude surged by more than 3% to $87.39 a barrel on Monday. Foreign Institutional Investors (FIIs) offloaded equities worth ₹998 crore on Monday, according to NSE data.

No energy crisis yet for India: Hardeep Singh Puri

RAKESH KUMAR @New Delhi

THE ongoing conflict between Israel and Palestine will not create an energy issue for India, and the country will navigate through it, said Petroleum Minister Hardeep Singh Puri on Monday.

"Let us be absolutely clear that the place where the action (Israel and Palestine conflict) is taking place is, in many respects, the center of global energy. We are watching it very carefully. As we move forward, we will navigate through this; there's no issue," said the minister. He reiterated that such uncertainties (in oil producing regions) will only hasten the transition towards sustainable and cleaner energy use.

Following the conflict, oil prices surged once again by $3.35 per barrel on Monday. The Brent Crude Futures, a benchmark of crude price, was trading at $87.96 a barrel on Monday, up by 4% or $3.35 at 8:30 pm IST.

Puri, while speaking on the sidelines of the Energy Technology Meet on October 9, also said that India is closely monitoring the developments. He mentioned that the country will handle the situation with maturity. Meanwhile, industry analysts believe that if the conflict spreads, there is a risk to supplies, as the Middle East region produces almost a third of the global oil supplies. According to Prashant Vashisht, vice president and co head at ICRA, the currently affected regions are not oil-producing, but this conflict is raising geopolitical risk premiums on oil, resulting in rising oil prices.

"However, if the conflict spreads, there is a risk to supplies, as the Middle East region produces almost a third of the global supplies. About 20% of the global oil supply would be impacted if the Strait of Hormuz is affected," added Vashist. India exported $5.5 billion worth of petroleum products to Israel in 2022-23, as per the commerce ministry data.

Crude oil prices have been highly volatile over the past month due to the production cuts by major oil producers Saudi Arabia and Russia.

Goldin receives Nobel in economics for research on workplace gender gap

PTI @New Delhi

HARVARD UNIVERSITY professor Claudia Goldin has received Nobel prize in economics for her research that has advanced the understanding of the gender gap in the labour market

Goldin is the third woman to win the prize out of 93 economics laureates. She has studied 200 years of women's participation in the workplace, showing that despite continued economic growth, women's pay did not catch up to men's and a divide still exists despite women gaining higher levels of education than men.

"I've always been an optimist. But when I look at the numbers, I think something has happened in America, that we, in the 1990s, our labour force participation rate for women was the highest in the world, and now it isn't the highest in the world," Goldin told The Associated Press. "We have to step back and ask questions about piecing together the family, the home, together with the marketplace and employment," she said.

Economist Randi Hjalmarsson, a member of the Nobel committee, said Goldin's research does not offer solutions, but it allows policymakers to tackle the entrenched problem.

"She explains the source of the gap, and how it's changed over time and how it varies with the stage of development. And therefore, there is no single policy," Hjalmarsson said. "So it's a complicated policy question because if you don't know the underlying reason, a certain policy won't work.'

However, 'by finally understanding the problem and calling it by the right name, we will be able to pave a better route forward,' Hjalmarsson said.

Urban joblessness rate drops to 6.6% in Apr-Jun

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @Bengaluru

THE country's urban unemployment rate dropped to 6.6% in the first quarter of this fiscal compared to 7.6% in the same period a year ago and 6.8% in January-March 2023.

As per the data released by the National Sample Survey office (NSSO), the rate is lower than the unemployment rates observed in the quarters covered in the pre-pandemic period.

It showed the unemployment rate among females in urban areas fell to 9.1% in April-June 2023 from 9.5% in the year-ago period. It was 9.2% in January-March 2023, 9.6% in October-December 2022 and 9.4% in July-September 2022.

The unemployment rate in urban areas among males dropped to 5.9% in April-June 2023 compared to 7.1% in the same quarter a year ago. It was 6% in January-March 2023 and 6.5 per% in October-December 2022. Labour force participation rate in CWS (Current Weekly Status) in urban areas for persons aged 15 years and above increased to 48.8% in April-June 2023, from 47.5% in the year-ago period. It was 48.5% in January-March 2023. The Worker Population Ratio (WPR) in urban areas increased from 43.9% in April-June 2022 to 45.5% in April-June 2023 for persons of age 15 years in above.

Govt eases reporting requirements for trusts, edu institutions, hospitals

MONIKA YADAV @New Delhi

THE Central Board of Direct Taxes (CBDT) in its latest notification gave limited relaxation to funds, trusts, educational institutions, hospitals, and medical institutions in relation to providing details of substantial contributors those who donate more than ₹50,000 in a year.

Now, in the audit reports, form 10 B and form 10BB, the details of such persons can be provided "if available".

"Representations have been received regarding difficulties in filling details of persons who have made a 'substantial contribution to the trust or institution', that is to say, any person whose total contribution up to the end of the relevant previous year exceeds fifty thousand rupees. The matter has been examined with reference to issue raised….. the aforesaid details (that is, of persons making substantial contribution) may be given with respect to those persons whose total contribution during the previous year exceeds fifty thousand rupees," the notification said.

Details of relatives and concerns with substantial interest can be provided if available. This measure aims to simplify the reporting process for the assessment year 2023-24, it stated.

However as per experts, this is not an absolute relaxation as they will have to make disclosure in case they have the details. As per Sandeep Jhunjhunwala, Tax Partner at Nangia Andersen LLP, "While some might view this as a relaxation, the absence of qualifying the former case (ie reporting of details of persons making substantial contribution) with the phrase 'if available', could imply a mandatory requirement."

Zoho CEO warns of huge uncertainties ahead

UMA KANNAN @Bengaluru

THE Israel-Hamas war throws new huge uncertainties and these are the kind of things that could turn into something much worse, said Sridhar Vembu, CEO and co-founder of SaaS unicorn Zoho Corp.

In an interaction with this newspaper, the chief executive officer said three things to watch out for from the economic point of view are oil prices and if they shoot up suddenly, it will put severe stress on not just India but every other country as well, second is what happens in the Middle East has a direct bearing on India since many of our workforce is there and the third one is remittances.

"From the energy perspective, we need renewable energy. We need to build those capabilities and we can do it as there is a talent pool. What we require is imagination to challenge our talent pool to raise to those challenges, and I believe this is vitally needed across our private sectors," he said.

For Zoho, which is privately held, India is No.3 market, after the US and the EU (European Union), and Vembu is bullish on India and its market. India has the potential to emerge as the biggest market for the company in the next 10 years.

"India contributes 10% of our total revenues and this will double and in another 10 years it will become the No. 1 market. Mexico is a very good market for us. We are growing very fast in the Middle East and with this war, I don't know what will happen in the ME and we cannot project," he said.

He added that Dubai and Abu Dhabi have been welcoming Indian start-ups to set up shop there and this will continue.

"Interestingly, global decision-making is also shifting towards India. CIOs are no longer taking decisions for India, they are taking decisions for the world," he said.

The company, which has invested heavily in R&D, said that it has grown by 37% in India in 2022.

It employs over 15,000 employees, and Vembu said they hired more last year and they would not go overboard, and are now hiring cautiously.

Zoho on Monday also announced the launch of Cliq Rooms, a smart conference rooms solution and announced new updates to its communication and collaboration platform Zoho Cliq.

Physio's inputs helping Kuldeep deliver more

Kuldeep Yadav played a perfect foil to his senior spinners, Ravindra Jadeja and Ravichandran Ashwin, in Chennai on Sunday. The trio bowled in tandem to stifle the Australian middle order and restricted them to a low score. Kuldeep, who picked up two wickets on the day, attributed his success to hard work and inputs from physio Ashish Kaushik.

> Everyone told me my deliveries required pace but no one told me how to do it. Once I was coming back from injury, it was physio Ashish Kaushik who advised that the load on my right leg should be less.

SUBTLE TOUCH, LARGE IMPACT IN THE MIDDLE

Backed by management, Rahul has been quietly playing a pivotal role

GOMESH S @ New Delhi

KL Rahul's unbeaten 97 helped India beat Australia on Sunday | ASHWIN PRASATH

BEING KL Rahul is difficult – a top Indian cricketer with his ability. Test debut nine years ago. ODI and T20I debut seven years ago. And yet somehow, every time he fails to deliver, Rahul has been a talking point for all the wrong reasons. Despite his exceptional talent and skill, every failure or modest outing is laid bare under the dissection table. At times even questions would be raised if he deserved the backing he gets from the team management.

With the amount of T20s he has played in the last three years, every on-field failure of Rahul often results in adverse reactions by the fans. The intended frustration usually stem from the fact that he fails to live up to his ability to play bowlers with consummate ease, sometimes leading to trolls and abuses on social media.

Now, Rahul is not in-your-face I-own-the-world Virat Kohli. His presence might not intimidate opponents. He might, at times, try to show the external aggression but that doesn't come naturally to him. In fact, his trademark celebration is closing his ears, gesturing that he is shutting out the noise from outside. The best version of Rahul, the cricketer, is when he quietly dismantles bowling attacks, makes even the best look like net bowlers, often creating a sense of awe for those who watch him bat.

And that is why, the team management has backed him for almost a decade through the vicissitudes of his career. They have thrown him in every situation possible, every position available to make him work. It wouldn't be a stretch to say that he got a similar kind of backing that Rohit Sharma had from the team management for the first half of his career. Need a No. 4, KL Rahul. Opener injured, someone needs to step in, Rahul. Need someone to keep wickets, Rahul. Need someone back again in middle-order, Rahul.

The one role where he got a longer rope was at No. 5 in ODIs. The numbers — 904 runs in 21 innings at 56.5, striking at 96.58 — tell the story. His record in the middle-order, despite stop-gap and long injury lay-offs, are as elitist. Call it luck or destiny, in the Asia Cup, when his moment came against Pakistan, Rahul showed what everyone always knew — he was in a zone.

On Sunday, once again, he was in a similar position. This time, the stakes were higher. Chasing 200 on a tricky pitch, India were 2/3 against Australia in their opening game of the home ODI World Cup at Chennai.

Rahul, on the second delivery he faced, showed the kind of touch he was in. A full delivery outside off-stump from Josh Hazlewood and Rahul leant forward, met the ball with his bat, not hit or drive, just met. The end result, a boundary as the ball raced to ropes. A few overs later, he did the same to Pat Cummins, this time opening the face of the bat, guiding the ball to square boundary.

Kohli, who had survived a drop catch, was slowly building on his innings. The battle, however, wasn't won yet. The biggest threat of the night on Chepauk was Adam Zampa. When he bowled in the 18th over, Kohli promptly took a single. The second ball was wide outside off-stump and Rahul nudged it towards point. Zampa came closer, attacking the off-stump. It was a delivery that would normally be hit down the ground or defended. Rahul waited till the last moment and cut the ball between point and short-third for a four.

Two balls latter, he did it again, this time cutting a googly for four. There were quite a few shots from thereon, including the one that he wanted to hit for four but went for a six and took India across the line. But it was that over against Zampa that changed it all.

Bowling coach Paras Mhambrey admitted as much. "We always knew what Rahul brings to the team, especially in the middle order. We need someone, and he is that kind of a player who plays spin well, also the fast bowlers. He gives you the stability and confidence. The way he has played in the past, we definitely trusted him, and it's good to have him back," Mhambrey told reporters after the match.

WORLD CUP TRIVIA

The 1999 World Cup marked the return of cricket to its home, England, and was the first time the tournament was officially named the "ICC Cricket World Cup".

'Special' WC for Pak-origin Dutch cricketer

FIROZ MIRZA @ Hyderabad

IT all started with empty plastic bottles and a soft ball at the backyard of their home in the Netherlands many years ago. The four brothers including the triplet of Saqib, Asad and Sikander and eldest of them Rehmat used to play with their father Zulfiqar Ahmed, a cricketer who had shifted from Sialkot in Pakistan to Netherlands and went on to play nine List A matches for the Dutch and Voorburg CC.

"My father used to play very high level cricket in Pakistan when he moved to the Netherlands for work. He played matches for the Dutch team as well," Saqib, who made his World Cup debut in the Netherlands' opening match against Pakistan here, told this daily.

Saqib made his international debut in June 2019. A month later, he played his maiden ODI. Despite starting late, he is the most experienced international cricketer in the Zulfiqar family with 14 ODIs and six T20Is.

It was a dream come true for the family when Saqib made his World Cup debut with the head of the family, Zulfiqar, being the happiest of them all. "My family is very proud of me as it was a dream to play a cricket World Cup especially in India. My father always coached us so that is extra special for him to see me play at the highest level," an elated 26-year-old Saqib said.

Babar sweats it out at new training venue with enhanced security

FIROZ MIRZA @ Hyderabad

Pakistan will be looking for their second successive win on Tuesday | TWITTER

IT turned out to be a lull before the storm. The two-hour silence that followed Sri Lanka team's practice session at the Gymkhana Ground was broken by a police siren with an inspector from Begumpet Police Station, along with a few of his subordinates, turning up at the venue to take stock of the security arrangements on Monday afternoon.

The Pakistan team was still a couple of kilometres away from the facility but the cops and other security guards, who were stationed at the venue and almost dozing off by then given the energy sapping heat, sprung into action.

Babar Azam and Co were scheduled to train at the place from 2 pm to 5 pm but they were late by almost an hour. "How long are they supposed to train here? We have been told that the training will end at 5. It's already 3 pm, make sure they complete training as per schedule," were the first few words the inspector uttered while addressing the ground authorities present at the venue.

The Men in Green have been in the city since September 27 and had their net sessions behind closed doors at the Rajiv Gandhi International Cricket Stadium in Uppal. Given the match between New Zealand and Netherlands at the stadium on Monday, training sessions of both the Pakistan and Sri Lanka teams was moved to the Gymkhana Ground. They are scheduled to play against each other in the city on Tuesday.

The new venue on the busy General Choudhary Road and adjacent to Parade Ground, which hosted a political function on Sunday night, was bound to give tough times to the police as they restricted entry to the place. Journalists and photographers, who were allowed to cover Sri Lanka's training session in the morning after initial resistance, were eventually directed not to enter the seven nets where Pakistan players were supposed to train. Fortunately enough, they were allowed to stay at the main strip.

Apparently accustomed to the security cordon around them by now, Pakistan players wasted no time as they made it to the open ground along with their support staff.

Even as other players were stretching and doing routine warm-up exercises, skipper Babar headed straight to the main strip to take throwdowns. Of late, the right-hand batter has not been so effective with the bat as he used to be. In the 17 matches this year, he has scored 750 runs with two hundreds, one of which came against Nepal during the Asia Cup, at an average of 46.57, way below his career average of 57.59.

Though he scored 80 and 90 runs respectively in the two warm-up matches against New Zealand and Australia, he has failed to cross the 30-run mark in his last four innings. What's more worrying is the way he got dismissed in those innings. He was castled twice, stumped and caught once.

Fully aware of the fact that the challenge will only grow as the tournament progresses, the 28-year-old Lahore cricketer spent around 45 minutes at the main strip. The initial phase saw edges flying to slip cordon, point and gully but as he got in his groove, his trademark cover drives and straight drives down the ground became quite regular. Full story: newindianexpress.com

PCB'S ZAKA RAISES CONCERNS

Meanwhile, the Pakistan Cricket Board (PCB) management committee chairman Zaka Ashraf has called upon Pakistan Foreign Secretary Syrus Sajjad Qazi on Monday and raised serious concerns over the delay in fans and journalists visas for India to cover the World Cup. "The chairman also requested the Foreign Secretary to take up the issue with India's Home Ministry through the Pakistan High Commission Office in New Delhi. The PCB has also taken serious notice of security threats being reported in Indian media and requested the government to evaluate players' security in India. He emphasised that the well being and safety of the Pakistan squad was of paramount importance," said an official release issued by the PCB. It should be noted that the PCB last week had written to the ICC expressing concerns over the delay in getting visas for the journalists and fans.

Pak vs Lanka

After contrasting results in their respective World Cup openers, Pakistan and Sri Lanka will play each other on Tuesday. A look...

RETURN OF THEEKSHANA

Hamstring injury ruled him out of Asia Cup final. Spinner Maheesh Theekshana missed Sri Lanka's World Cup opener as well wherein his team was plundered for runs by South Africa. The 23-year-old off-break bowler is set to return to the playing XI bolstering bowling attack against Pakistan in their second match in Hyderabad on Tuesday. "He's fit and should play tomorrow," said Naveed Nawaz, assistant coach.

ASIA CUP WIN BOOST

Before the Asia Cup Super 4 match, which was a virtual semifinal, Pakistan were unbeaten against Sri Lanka in their previous eight ODIs. The win in the continental tournament not only gave the Island Nation their first win over Pakistan since 2017 but also helped them into the final where they eventually lost to India. The Dasun Shanaka-led side can take confidence from their recent win over their opponents in the next match.

Can B'desh test defending champions?

England take on Bangladesh in Dharamshala on Tuesday in a day game. A look...

FOCUS ON OUTFIELD

After Afghanistan fielders slipping on the sandy outfield, the ICC has inspected and evidently has told players to be careful while diving. For a tournament that's 46 days long, teams are understandably apprehensive even though Jos Buttler said they will not hold back. It also brings the venue prep under the radar after the ticketing clutter that has happened so far.

STOKES LIKELY TO MISS

Ben Stokes is likely to miss another game in this World Cup because of his knee injury. Buttler said that he is batting and still recovering but still there yet. And with 7 more league games to go, they would not want to risk losing Stokes to a major injury.

Cricket set to make debut in LA'28

ENS @ Chennai

WHILE cricket's biggest carnival — the ICC Men's ODI World Cup — is underway in India, bigger news emerged on Monday that the sport could be part of the 2028 Los Angeles Olympics. The International Cricket Council (ICC) announced that the organisers of the LA 2028 Olympics have decided to recommend cricket for inclusion at the Games.

"After a two-year process, in which the ICC worked closely with LA28, the list of sports to be added in LA included cricket, which will now be put forward for approval to the IOC," the ICC statement read.

However, it is not the final decision yet. The call to confirm cricket's incusion would be taken when IOC meet in Mumbai on next Monday. ICC Chairman Greg Barclay said, "Whilst this is not the final decision, it is a very significant landmark towards seeing cricket at the Olympics for the first time in more than a century."

Featured only once before, in the 1900 Paris Olympics, cricket will be making it's comeback in a significant manner. This time, in LA, both men's and women's event are reportedly to be a played in the T20 format.

Cricket's market has become wider since the advent of T20 format, which has reduced the game time to three and a half hours. With all international games are recognised as T20Is by the ICC, more countries are beginning to play the sport. The market it has in the Indian subcontinent adds financial value.

Last year, women's cricket made its debut in the Commonwealth Games and it attracted measurable number of crowd, where India won silver medal.

Asian Games Diary: Pork delicacies, locals' craze for KFC & more

A delayed trip, helpful volunteers, being treated like a rockstar and figuring out Chinese in a week. This reporter faced it all in the eight days he was in Hangzhou. Here's a look at the diary...

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN

September 29

On my way to the airport. I'm mentally prepared to be ejected out of the airport again. I mean, I don't even know if the authorities have been briefed about the e-cards. Thankfully, I get my boarding pass as well as clear immigration with minimal fuss. After many false dawns, I fly out. In Singapore, though, I face a stumbling block. They haven't seen an e-card but they want to trust me on good faith. So, they let me pass after taking a photo of my passport and e-card. I land in Hangzhou a full night later. One of the first things I see upon my arrival in the Media Village are 'free condoms available here'.

October 1

Covering Aditi Ashok's last round is going to be my first assignment in Hangzhou. She's leading by so many strokes they may as well give her gold now. However, she drops many shots to only win silver. Just before the end, one of her family members picks up a fight with a few members of the Indian press corps. In the night, another gold turns silver as the men's badminton team lets a 2-0 lead slip against China.

October 2

If you want to see Chinese fans against Indian players, the TT hall is the place to be. They are cheering on the North Koreans in the women's team semifinal. India aren't too fazed but still lose. Initial impressions of Hangzhou are for a country that doesn't like the USA, they are exactly like the USA. High-rise buildings everywhere, the public go nuts for KFC and English songs dominate. Meanwhile, one senior India official is giving a lecture on how to do journalism to journalists. Please stay in your lane, kind sir. This official is on record, comes on record to say he's on record but says everything is off the record 20 minutes after holding centre-stage. If any of what the official said becomes public, let's just say it may become tricky.

October 3

炭烤猪梅肉
Grilled Pork Butt

Hangzhou loves its pork. It loves it so much that every meal has different varieties of pork on the menu. Today, it's the day of some good, old checks notes pork butt (it literally says 'grilled pork butt'). Another day, pork elbow is part of the delicacies.

October 4

Diary has a first-hand experience of what it's to be treated like an Indian cricketer, or a film star. There is an hour's free time in the afternoon, so a few journalists decide to take a pleasure boat on the picturesque West Lake. This place doesn't see too many brown-skinned people so there is a strong urge to take pictures with them. For 15 minutes, we are treated like rockstars, with mothers wanting their kids to stand next to us. We pose in all manner of ways, while finding the experience very awkward.

October 5

The diary is invited to dinner by the Indian Olympic Association (IOA). There's going to be Indian food, so the press corps have decided to get their priorities right. Food first, copies to offices second. There's also free liquor but diary is working. By the time the night is over, at least one senior official needs the help of a volunteer to climb down the stairs. Oh, well.

October 6

Bajrang Punia is going to be in competitive action for the first time in more than a year so some of us decide to travel more than an hour to take in wrestling. It's in Lin'an district. It's like the place you would typically see in a Hollywood movie where cops race against time to find a serial killer. So, it's only natural we go in search of food only to land up at the local hospital. On the sporting front, it's confirmed. India will finish with more than 100 medals.

October 7

On the day when India breaches the 100-medal mark, they win six more gold. Super Saturday with a couple of capital S's. While there is a fight in the kabaddi, the badminton stars have created history. Cricket produces another gold while chess delivers late in the day. There is a plan done to go out for dinner (rather than eat food in the Main Media Centre). But all the stories of the medals don't write themselves, so diary stays back till midnight.

October 8

The first and only India-free day at the Games so diary goes sightseeing. But it is very underprepared. One of the metro lines is shut so that plan goes out for a toss. Yet, inadvertently, diary lands up for a spectacular view from the other side of the city. A very pretty Hangzhou looks prettier, so the phone cameras work overtime.

India recorded 3.02 million preterm births in 2020 - the highest worldwide - accounting for over 20% of all preterm births globally, according to a study published in the The Lancet journal.

GASTROESOPHAGEAL REFLUX DISEASE

WHEN FOOD SPILLS OUT OF STOMACH

HEMANT KUMAR ROUT @Bhubaneswar

If you experience a burning sensation in the chest, usually after having food, or have upper abdominal pain and trouble in swallowing (dysphagia) or feel a lump in the throat, do not ignore it, as you may have or end up with gastroesophageal reflux disease (GERD), commonly known as acid reflux. Usually, the food we swallow reaches the stomach through the esophagus and the muscle fibers at the lower esophagus prevent it from moving back up. But when the ring of muscle does not close all the way, stomach contents can spill back into the esophagus. This condition is called reflux or gastroesophageal reflux, and frequent acid reflux causes GERD.

GERD occurs when stomach contents repeatedly flow back into the esophagus. This backwash irritates the lining of the esophagus leading to heartburn and pain. Although heartburn is a symptom of acid reflux, it has nothing to do with the heart. As per studies, the prevalence of GERD ranges from 7.6% to 30% in the Indian population and around 22.2% in southern states. It is more common in the elderly, obese people, alcoholics and smokers, and also during pregnancy. People residing in urban areas are more vulnerable to the disease than those in rural areas.

GERD is most common in the West, affecting 20% of the population and about 60% among them are women. The dietary factors associated with the disease include intake of spices and meat. Less than 10% of GERD patients in India have erosive esophagitis.

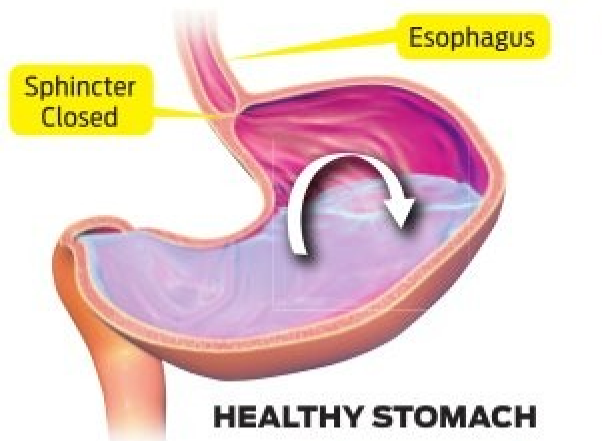
Dr Sushant Sethi, head of Institute of Gastroenterology at Apollo Hospital, Bhubaneswar, said GERD is one of the most common gastrointestinal disorders these days due to changing food habits and lifestyle. "Acid reflux cases are not uncommon these days, but some people suffer from burning discomfort, bloating and belching almost every time they eat. It can lead to scarring of the tissue in the oesophagus and gets worse if not diagnosed and treated early," he said.

Causes and symptoms

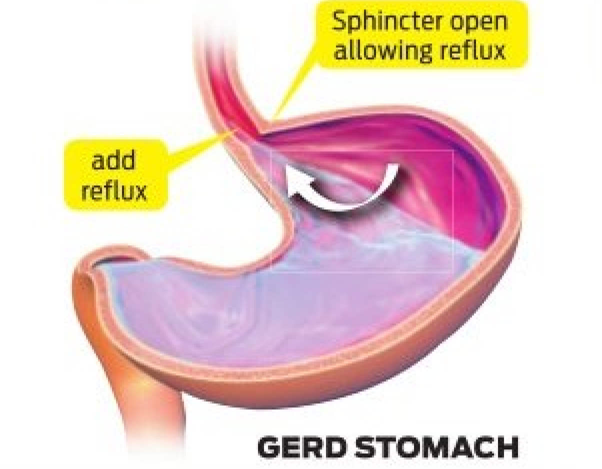
GERD may develop if the lower esophageal sphincter becomes weak or relaxes when it should not. Factors that can aggravate acid reflux include smoking, eating heavy meals or eating late at night, eating certain foods (triggers) such as fatty/non-vegetarian or fried foods, drinking beverages such as alcohol.

Some medicines can also cause GERD or make its symptoms worse. Unregulated use of benzodiazepines, sedatives that make people calmer or sleepy, calcium channel blockers - which are used to treat high blood pressure, certain asthma medicines, non-steroidal anti-inflammatory drugs, painkillers, sedatives and antidepressants can lead to gastroesophageal reflux disease.

Bengaluru-based senior gastrointestinal surgeon Dr Muralidhar S Kathalagiri said poor lifestyle decisions, stress, insufficient sleep, weight gain and improper eating practices are some of the causes of rising prevalence of GERD in metropolitan settings. "Younger people are now suffering from GERD, most likely because of elevated stress levels. This emphasizes on a healthy lifestyle and raising awareness about GERD," he said.



HEALTHY STOMACH



GERD STOMACH

WHY IT HAPPENS?

- The stomach contains hydrochloric acid, which helps break down food and protect against pathogens such as bacteria. The lining of the stomach is specially adapted to protect it from the powerful acid, but the esophagus is not protected
- A ring of muscle, the gastroesophageal sphincter, normally acts as a valve that lets food into the stomach. When this valve fails, stomach content regurgitates back into the esophagus. This is acid reflux
- Without treatment, persistent acid reflux or GERD can lead to serious complications in the long term

PREVENTIVE APPROACH

- Eat smaller, more frequent meals
- Keep chest and head above the level of your waist while lying down, which can stop stomach acid travelling towards your throat
- Try to lose weight if you're overweight
- Avoid lying down within 2-3 hours of eating a meal
- Do not smoke, drink too much alcohol
- Stop taking any prescribed medicine without doctor's advice

Food to avoid: ● Caffeine ● Alcohol ● Fatty and spicy foods ● Tomato and tomato sauces ● Onion and garlic ● Chocolate, carbonated drinks, and acidic juices

Symptoms

The disease can manifest in a wide range of symptoms which can be divided into typical, atypical and extraesophageal symptoms. Typical symptoms include heartburn and acid regurgitation. Among atypical symptoms, epigastric pain, dyspepsia, nausea, bloating, excessive burping and belching are common. Those who have night time acid reflux, they might also experience ongoing cough, inflammation of the vocal cords (laryngitis) and new or worsening of asthma. Over time, chronic inflammation can cause inflammation of the tissue in the esophagus (esophagitis). Frequent flow of acid can also cause changes in the tissue lining of the lower esophagus and lead to risk of esophageal cancer. "Overstress or a bad lifestyle will worsen these symptoms. Individuals in their late 30s and 40s are more likely to experience the disease," Dr Kathalagiri stressed.

Diagnosis and treatment

GERD is broadly categorised into four types – mild, moderate, severe and pre-cancer or cancer. In mild GERD, acid reflux occurs once or twice a month while in moderate, symptoms are frequent enough to require medication, which is typically taken daily. If the symptoms persist despite medication, it can become severe and later cancerous.

The diagnosis is typically made by a combination of clinical symptoms, response to acid suppression, as well as objective testing with upper endoscopy and esophageal pH monitoring. Patients with symptoms of GERD, such as heartburn and regurgitation, can be diagnosed and treated empirically with proton pump inhibitors (PPIs). Diagnostic procedures include x-ray of the upper digestive system, upper endoscopy, reflux testing (wireless pH/pH impedance), esophageal manometry, barium esophagram and transnasal esophagoscopy.

"The most common diagnostic procedure for GERD is endoscopy, which can reveal changes in the esophageal mucosa. About 30-40% of GERD patients show these changes. However, some patients may have normal-looking oesophagus on endoscopy but still experience symptoms, which is called NERD. It accounts for the majority of GERD cases (60-70%). To diagnose NERD, 24-hour pH monitoring is often used," said Dr Bhageerath Raj D, consultant gastroenterologist, hepatologist and therapeutic endoscopist at Renova NIGL Hospitals, Hyderabad.

GERD is a chronic disease that typically requires long-term management in the form of lifestyle modification, medical therapy and surgical therapy. Options include antacids, medications to reduce and block acid production and heal the esophagus.

Dr S Arulprakash, senior consultant and clinical lead gastroenterology at MGM Healthcare Hospital, Chennai, said advanced diagnostic procedures like 24-hour pH monitoring and esophageal manometry allow physicians to accurately diagnose and plan treatment for patients. "Mild cases can often be managed with lifestyle changes and antacids. For severe cases, PPIs or surgery may be recommended. Personalised treatment plans are crucial, as GERD can vary widely in severity among individuals. Patients, who do not respond to medicines, can benefit from endoscopy or surgical treatment," added Arulprakash.

As GERD can be considered a potential cofactor in patients with asthma, chronic cough or laryngitis, physicians often go for careful evaluation for non-GERD causes. "Surgical treatment may be required in cases of persistent or uncontrolled GERD. Patients are recommended for fundoplication, in which surgeons wrap the top of the stomach around the lower esophageal sphincter to tighten the muscle and prevent reflux. It also helps tighten the lower esophageal sphincter. Besides, linx device can be surgically implanted at the junction of stomach and esophagus to keep it closed, but weak enough to allow food to pass," said Dr Ayaskanta Singh, head of gastroenterology and liver sciences, SUM Ultimate Medicare.

ALOPECIA

Quit stressing to prevent hair loss

SINDUJA JANE @Chennai

Alopecia is excessive hair loss in a particular area or throughout the scalp or the body. While there are two types of alopecia - scarring and non-scarring - scarring alopecia is not treatable. In most of the cases it is asymptomatic, while in some cases the hair will start falling suddenly, and in very rare cases the symptoms will include itching, inflammation in the scalp or sometimes in the body.

The disease could be triggered due to infections, genetics, nutritional, hormonal, connective tissue disorders, dyeing hair with colour, using medicated shampoos, injectable hormones, sexually transmitted diseases and others. In hormonal, hypothyroid and hormones induced during pregnancy can cause hair loss. Infections could be due to viral, bacterial and fungal diseases.

XPLAINER

Stress is also another reason for hair loss. "We also see a lot of cases of hair loss after Covid-19 infection. For some people, the hair will grow back in three to six months and in some cases it might take a year or longer. There are many studies on this," said Dr V Anandan, Head of Dermatology Venereology and Leprosy (DVL) Department, Government Stanley Medical College Hospital, Chennai.

The line of treatment depends on the underlying cause. "If it is due to infection, it should be treated. For hormonal imbalance, hormone replacement should be done. If all these cannot be done, then hair transplant should be done. In most cases, medical treatment will be helpful," Anandan said. Treatment options include UV light treatment, platelet rich plasma therapy among others.

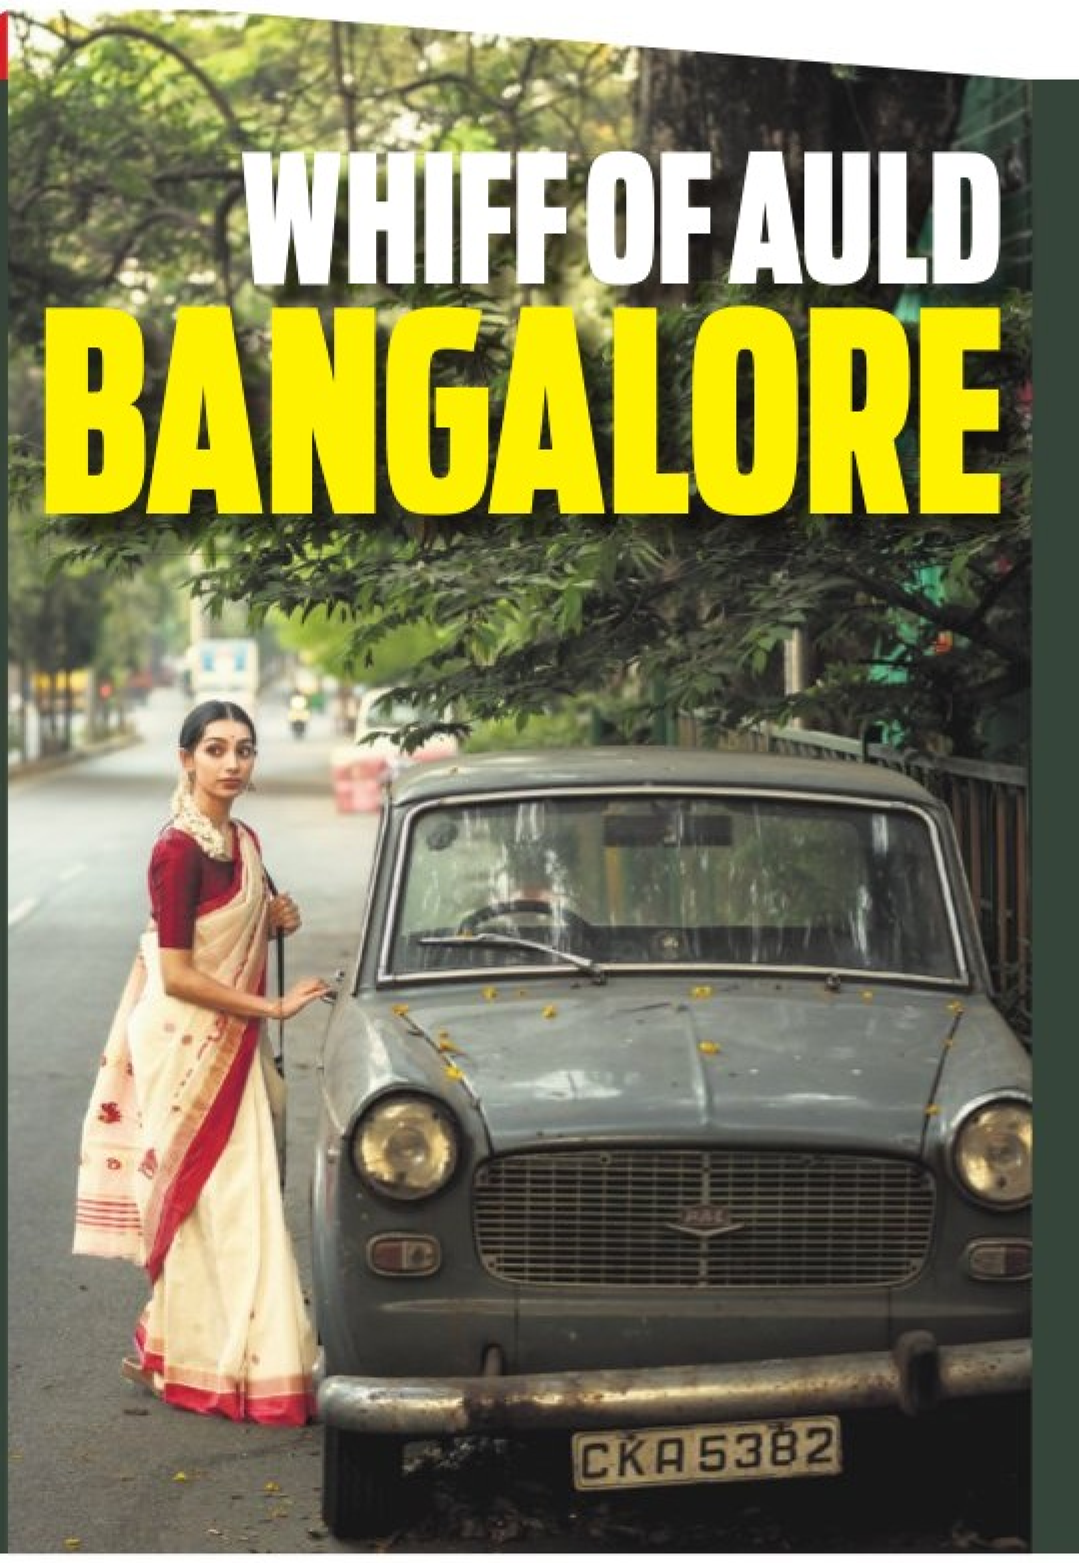
WHIFF OF AULD BANGALORE



Gripping onto the old-world charm of the city is Aachar and Co., a film that ushers in a wave of nostalgia. And city-based photographers are riding on the trend, emulating that era through their lenses

> With growing urbanisation, I wanted to capture the city the way I would have had I been around in the '70s
>
> — Biplab Mohapatra, amateur photographer

MONIKA MONALISA

WHEN the movie Aachar and Co, set in the '60s of Bengaluru was released, every old Bengalurean had a personal connection to it in terms of how the family dynamics worked back then or how quaint the city looked. Now, many city-based photographers and content creators are trying to recreate the old-world charm with their works and storytelling.

For example, Biplab Mohapatra, an amateur photographer, loves capturing the city in the '60s or '70s' look. Some of the elements that are prominent in his series are his muse who wears a simple floral-printed saree, with a middle-parting hairstyle, and a small bindi high on the forehead. To keep up the vintage theme of his series, he uses props that were prominent back in the day, the Premier Padmini. "I grew up listening to Ilayaraja, because my parents and grandparents who listened to his music. So that immediately transports me back to that era. My influence of the '70s or '80s is from movies. With growing urbanisation, I wanted to capture the city the way I would have had I been around in the '70s," says Mohapatra, a software engineer by profession.

Old Bangalore was not just about looks or props, it was also about people and their stories. What did young people like, or how did lovers meet back then? Content creator Rida Tharana, along with her friend Siddhesh Lokare, created a video about people going on a date in the 1960s. Set in a time which was way before the cafe, the characters went on a filter coffee date to CTR in Malleswaram. Tharana, who is usually seen in modern attire, dressed the part by donning a saree and completing the look with jasmine flowers in her hair. "As much as we are heading towards modernisation, I love wearing sarees. I love wearing jasmine flowers which is exactly what my mother and grandma used to do," says Tharana, who loves embracing these nuggets.

Being a true-blue Bengalurean, filmmaker and photographer, Harshitha Parthasarathi, didn't have to look for inspiration beyond the city.

"My mother is a Carnatic singer, something that has influenced me greatly. Growing up, I was fascinated by the western world. During my undergrad, however, I started reading Kannada books and that changed my view about the land I was from. Writers like Kuvempu, SL Byrappa, Poornachandra Tejaswi, have helped me appreciate my culture," says Parthasarathi, whose favourite place to shoot are age-old markets in the city. "I usually take walks in Jayanagar marketplaces and spend hours observing people. One of my favourite observations are the vendors at fruit and flower shops who have Kannada music running in the background," she says.

Photographer Apoorva Prasad loves capturing the city through in black and white. "When I see photos from my grandparents' albums, they are filled with stories, which is why my last series was a black and white, silent movie," says Prasad.

The third edition of the International Women and Youth Achievers Awards, held on Sunday, felicitated eight women achievers

ACKNOWLEDGING ACHIEVERS

EXPRESS FEATURES

IT was a typical Sunday morning in the city – hot yet overcast – when Bengalureans from all walks of life gathered at the Ravindra Kalakshetra on JC Road to celebrate young talents and achievers in various fields from across the country. It was the third edition of the International Women and Youth Achievers Awards, jointly organised by the Cubbon Park Walkers Association and the Cubbon Park Walkers Forum.

Originally started in 2019, the awards are meant to recognise, inspire and empower primarily women achievers from South India and people of South Indian-origin from across the world. "When we originally started this, the thinking behind it was to promote achievers and young talents, especially from South India, and underprivileged sections of society and showcase their good work and achievements to the world. Until then, there wasn't a platform for these achievers, who don't necessarily have the financial or social capital. I would see that a lot of people would be felicitated in north India or overseas, be it in Mumbai and Delhi. But getting to those cities itself would be a huge financial burden on some of the achievers from South India," says Umesh Kumar, advocate and president of the Cubbon Park Walkers Association.

This year's edition honoured women from eight different categories, some of whom include Sangeetha Katti (music), Dr Sujatha Rathod (medicine), Laasya (dance), Divya (anchor) and Ankitha BS (sports). The awardees were felicitated by guest of honour and Minister of Transport of Karnataka, Ramalinga Reddy. During the first edition of the awards, more than 30 different achievers were felicitated, including environmentalist Saalumarada Thimmakka.

The highlight of this year's edition was the felicitation of Andra Pradesh-based Bharathi, a former daily labourer turned Ph.D holder in chemistry. The event also saw cultural performances, including by students from Jain (Deemed-to-be University) and Ankita Pandey and a team from Christ Univeristy.

IT'S no secret that Assassin's Creed is my favourite game series of all time. I stood loyal through its highs (AC 2), and lows (AC Valhalla). Year after year, I clocked in hours – climbing buildings, hiding in haystacks, and performing leaps of faith from spectacular towers. That's why, as a dedicated fan, I declare that Assassin's Creed Mirage is the best game in the series yet. The developers have workshopped their ideas, and repackaged the original games with the few things that we liked from the more recent editions. Unlike the confusing array of maps in AC Valhalla, AC Mirage confines players to the labyrinthine alleys and majestic structures of Baghdad. The city is the setting for Mirage, where Basim's tale unfolds. It goes without saying that any game in the AC series represents the historical essences of the places we play in. It does this with more than just the visual elements in Mirage, as the characters interject in Arabic with even an Arabic voice track option. A newly recruited member of the 'Hidden Ones', as the Assassins are called, Basim's goal is to help his brotherhood infiltrate the evil members of the order of the Ancients and liberate the city. The missions are a series of events that involve investigating the web of clues surrounding the members of this order – they take place in security-heavy buildings. Sitting on a park bench contemplatively with Basim, hiding from enemies, I realise why I love this game. I've missed the commotion that unnecessarily over-detailed urban landscapes provided in Assassin's Creed. Navigating lanes while shoving people out of the way, and leaping from rooftops is a joy unmatched by any other game. It helps that the number of main missions is reasonable, with fewer order members to cut through in comparison to the roster in AC Odyssey and Valhalla. This scaled-down game in Mirage brings an improvement to the skill trees. It's refreshingly streamlined here, with three specific skill trees named 'Phantom', 'Trickster' or 'Predator', each focusing on attack, stealth, or tool-driven benefits. The skill-points aren't handed out easily either. It requires missions to be completed, giving a sense of accomplishment, rather than a monotonous grind. Ubisoft also seems to remind us that even the recent games have their role to play in this 'back to basics' Mirage. The story-based side-missions from Valhalla with puzzles to solve feature in some way in Baghdad too. But they aren't marked on the map, you may just come across them by surprise while interacting with characters. You may come across a random letter that directs you to a nearby treasure, or come across an interaction where Basim helps a teen try his first leap of faith from the top of a tower. These nods to the recent games add depth, turning every encounter to a delightful surprise.

The little bit of Basim that I remember from the previous game, is almost negligible here, leaving me disappointed. I was expecting him to be snarkier and unreliable, but he's a diligent and battle-hardened assassin. Surprisingly, it's Roshan who steals the show.

The game is available across consoles. I would suggest Mirage for newcomers to the series. It keeps the fundamentals of the franchise while leveraging the advancements over the last 13 years of its existence.

This city-based entrepreneur has proven her mettle in the recently-concluded Ironman 70.3 in France, which comprised a 1.9 km swim, a 90-km bike ride, and a 21.1-km run

RACING AHEAD

EXPRESS FEATURES

IN today's fast-paced and competitive business world, maintaining a healthy work-life balance has become increasingly challenging, particularly for those in leadership roles. However, many understand that achieving a balance between their professional and personal lives is crucial not only for their own well-being but also for the success of their organisations. Shweta Sastri, an entrepreneur and educationist, recently participated in the Ironman 70.3 (comprises a 1.9 km swim, a 90-km bike ride, and a 21.1-km run) in Vichy, France. This was the 3rd Ironman that she competed in and by far the most challenging. In her first competition in Dubai, she had an accident at the start of the race and due to the injuries sustained, she was forced to quit the race. Forty-five days following her accident, during which she had to undergo plastic surgery that entailed 70 stitches on her face along with treatments for the graze burns, she was back on her cycle training for the next competition in Goa.

The first Ironman competition Sastri participated in was in Dubai on a flat course.

> Owing to heat and dehydration, the mind plays games. Being able to overcome these demons was a challenge too
>
> Shweta Sastri, entrepreneur and educationist

However, she was unable to complete that race due to the accident. Her second Ironman was in Goa. "Goa was a redemption and I proved to myself that I could complete the challenge. Goa was slightly hilly and I wanted to find a race that was more challenging. Vichy in France was all hills and was more challenging than I expected. It was more than 2.5x times the elevation of Nandi Hills and was a tough experience. The 'flats' were also uphill and there were few downhills which were dangerous at high speeds. The heat levels were really gruelling and there were times when I felt like getting off the bike and pushing, which might have been faster. We were the only Indian team who participated in the event," says Sastri.

As she says, 'getting out of my head was the biggest challenge I faced during the race'. "Owing to heat and dehydration, the mind plays games. Being able to overcome these demons was a challenge too. Finally, the route itself was really challenging and completing would not have been possible without the extensive and consistent training I went through," says Sastri, who competes in these endurance races despite often being questioned about her goals. "It keeps me sane and I have always sought fitness goals, mental peace, and commitment to an end point because that keeps me focused," points out Sastri.

NO ACCOUNTABILITY, NO LOVE

LOVEOLOGY

ARE you in a relationship where once there has been a fight, there is a strong urge to get on with life? Do you find yourself or your partner saying, "I have said sorry already, no? Can you not just get over it and let's be nice to each other again?" Or go a little further and say in typical Indian fashion "I will fall at your feet if you like, and do full sashtanga namaskaram. Will that be enough for you to let go and be normal?"

If you are the person saying all this, it probably makes absolute sense to you that you do these things and it may leave you bewildered why your partner is behaving the way they do. After all, in your mind, you are being as apologetic as you can be, and you are offering to even debase yourself a little to that effect. You may be perfectly willing and capable of doing the action for it as well, and follow through with the actions of falling at one's feet, take out an ad in the newspaper to publicly acknowledge this or go to any extent. That's why it can be so frustrating that the other person is unwilling to be reasonable and get back to 'normal'. It can feel very tempting to forget that you are the one apologising, and start getting angry at the partner and outraged that they are so hard-hearted and mean. To not accept an apology itself might become the next fight, and a more challenging one at that.

On the other hand, if you are the person hearing these kind of 'Let it go', or 'Be normal already', you are probably resonating with how frustrating it is to be told that your anger is not normal, and that you cannot just accept a story and a sorry, but really want to hold your loved one to a certain personal accountability is just not even seen, let alone acknowledged. It can be very provoking to then be blamed as being the hard-hearted, mean person when you were the hurt party in the first place.

The dramatics of the apology aside, we really need to look at accountability. Is the person causing the hurt really understanding of what they did to cause the hurt? Are they actually being accountable? Will they really be able to make sure they do better in the future? All of this is important. Without it, no amount of falling at feet, or performing improbable feats of dexterity, or throwing money or gifts will cut it.

Relationships see this conflict often. At the beginning, one may be willing to assume that accountability comes with apology, but it is not something that gets too many chances. We experience a person's love when they willingly work on themselves to make sure that we don't get hurt by them, at least after we tell them about the issue – not just when it is convenient, but also when it isn't. In fact, even more so, when situations are not easy.

Without accountability, there is no love.

KRISHNA TO TAKE HISTORICAL ROUTE WITH HALAGALI

Krishna

Directed by Sukesh Nayak, the film will mark the actor's first pan-India project, and it will be made in two parts

A SHARADHAA

Krishna, mostly known for his romantic and family-oriented films such as Love Mocktail and the recently released Kousalya Supraja Rama, is taking a slight departure with his next project, titled Halagali. Directed by Sukesh Nayak, the film will explore a historical subject, and is set in the pre-Independence period, during the British era, specifically in 1857.

Sukesh Nayak, who debuted with Krishna Tulasi in 2018, is now gearing up for his sophomore project. "In the historical context of the 1857 First War of Independence, the brave residents of Halagali, a small village in Karnataka's Bagalkot district, displayed exceptional heroism. Among various acts of valour during that period, a remarkable incident stands out, where the Beda community, renowned as hunters and warriors, played a pivotal role in defeating the British. They were known for possessing weapons, which held great significance for them as both symbols of worship and a means of sustenance. My story is based on this hunter community, combining true incidents with fictional elements," explains Sukesh, who took two and a half years to write the script.

Sukesh Nayak

Sukesh is currently scouting locations in North Karnataka and plans to start shooting in January. "We are finalising locations in and around Bagalkot, where we will create extensive sets."

Produced by Kalyan Chakravarthy, the project marks his first venture in the Kannada film industry, after producing the Telugu film. Interestingly, the historical film is planned to be made in two parts, and will be Krishna's first pan-Indian project. "He is currently focused on transforming his body for the role, including learning horse riding and working on stunts to portray a hunter convincingly," revealed Sukesh.

While more details about Krishna's role will be revealed later, the filmmakers are finalising the rest of the cast. On the technical front, Vasuki Vaibhav has been selected to compose the music, and cinematographer Ravi Kumar sana is on board.

Meanwhile, Krishna, who is looking forward for the release of Sugar Factory, is working on his next directorial, Love Mocktail 3, which is curently in scripting stages.

Inamdar locks release date

CE FEATURES

Nakul Abhayankar has crafted the film's background score.

A still from the film

Where romance met reality

A SHARADHAA

In an industry saturated with love stories, courageous filmmakers often seek to breathe fresh life into the genre, and Mahesha C Ammallidoddy, the director of Love, comfortably falls into this category. While there are films talking about the romance between two religions, this one not only explores a theme that delves beyond the dynamics of love between individuals of different faiths but also sheds light on the complexities of human mind that can disrupt even the most profound relationships, predominantly conveys it through romantic medleys that come at various intervals, traveling with the narrative.

The story based on real incidents, unfolds in a diverse landscape where Swastik (Prajay Jayaram), a devout Hindu, falls in love with Zoya (Vrusha Patil), a dedicated follower of Islam. Their love story flourishes against this backdrop as they yearn to unite in matrimony and carve out a shared life. However, imposing societal barriers cast a looming shadow over their dreams. Forced to flee their homes, they embark on a journey towards a fresh beginning. Yet, their newfound happiness faces relentless threats from the girl's father and brother, driven by murderous intent. As the girl teeters on the brink of disappearing into the unknown, a burning question emerges: Who is the mastermind behind her vanishing act? To unearth the truth, one must plunge into the depths of Love.

The film opens interestingly with a poignant juxtaposition of a mosque and a Hindu temple, setting the stage for the entwined destinies of Swastik and Zoya. Swastik is introduced as he nonchalantly smokes a cigarette near a local shop. Meanwhile, Zoya is depicted walking along the same path, her presence punctuated by expressions of discomfort. Her groans draw Swastik's attention, leading to an unexpected encounter. Swastik's compassionate gesture offers her a sanitary pad and directs her to a nearby public toilet. Zoya emerges from the restroom, her face adorned with a grateful smile, but Swastik has mysteriously vanished.

Amidst this backdrop, Swastik's parents, intent on an arranged Hindu marriage, urge him to expedite the process. However, he remains steadfast in his desire for a love-driven union. Zoya's path crosses with Swastik once more, this time at her college. Here, he candidly compliments her beauty, igniting a spark of romance. Zoya's parents soon discover her blossoming love, setting in motion a series of events that shape the trajectory of Love.

Love marks Mahesha C Ammallidoddy's second venture as a director. His endeavour to infuse love with depth and intrigue extends beyond the realms of traditional romance, and the newcomers, part of his vision, make it interesting. The narrative embraces additional layers of friendship, infidelity, and suspicion, serving as a testament to his ambition. Another highlighting point is the way the film underscores how some youths, irrespective of religious or communal affiliations, prioritize friendships over societal divisions.

LOVE

Director: Mahesha C Ammallidoddy

Cast: Prajay Jayaram, Vrusha Patil, Rajath Shetty, Umesh Theli, and Hareesh Shetty

Beyond the primary romantic narrative, an additional layer exists within the film's fabric. Love unfolds as a dual love story, where the former takes centre stage, and the latter gradually unfolds towards the narrative's conclusion. The makers could have delivered a more riveting climax to provide a satisfying culmination.

The majority of the cast comprises newcomers, with Prajay Jayaram delivering a commendable performance in his debut, showcasing innocence when it comes to love as well as adamancy in pursuing what he likes. He has a promising future in his acting career. Vrusha Patil displays her charm and is the soul of the film. Rajath Shetty, portraying Syed, provides reliable support, while Umesh Theli, in the role of the menacing security guard, convincingly embodies the antagonist.

Another standout feature lies in its breathtaking setting, and Siddarth HR deserves praise for his work behind the camera. Expertly captured against the stunning backdrops of Coorg, Udupi, Kundapura, and various other locales, Love seamlessly integrates these picturesque landscapes into its narrative tapestry. Even Bengaluru, typically overlooked, receives a unique cinematic treatment. The film benefits immensely from Sai Kiran and Roshit Vijayan's music, which resonates delightfully.

However, it's worth noting that a more seasoned cast might have injected additional strength into the film. To effectively translate the director's vision onto the screen, they could have potentially delved even deeper into the narrative's complexities, thereby elevating the film's intensity.

If the director had ensured a more concise pre-intermission screenplay and minimised scene repetition, especially in the first half, Love could have emerged as a standout release among recent films. Having said that, Love, from the perspective of newcomers, breathes freshness into the genre, and is worth one time experience.

KARTIK BHARDWAJ

'People thought I was mad to refuse lead roles'

Jimmy Sheirgill was getting weary of playing villains. He has played the moustachioed-strongman time and again with the Saheb, Biwi Aur Gangster films, Mukkabaaz (2017), and recently Aazam (2023). "Whenever a director approaches me with an antagonist role, I get a bit apprehensive," says the 52-year-old actor. "My first thought is, 'fir se wahi na ho' (Not the same thing again)."

Initially skeptical, he, however, agreed to play one in Netflix's heist thriller series Choona. "Once in a while comes in a director who can convince you," he shares. "When I spoke to Pushpendra (Nath Mishra, the creator and director), I realised that the only similarity between Shukla ji (his character from the series) and all the villains that I had played before was that they were all very strong characters."

"No two villains can be the same, they can only have similar shades," adds Pushpendra. "The mechanics of my world are different from say like that of a Tigmanshu Dhulia film. I was clear that there would be no overlapping."

In the series, Jimmy sports bandhgalas and plays Avinash Shukla, a local politician with a penchant for astrology. His 'grah' (planets) start going haywire when he rubs some of his subordinates the wrong way. They, ultimately, form a team to loot Shukla in order to make him pay. "To me, the premise felt very fresh," says Jimmy. "I liked how the show was rooted but still somehow had an international feel to it." An ensemble, the series also features actors Vikram Kochhar, Monika Panw ar, Chandan Roy and Aashim Gulati, who plays Yakub Ansari, a goon, eager to earn some political clout. When asked what his take was after reading the script, Aashim revealed he wasn't given the entire screenplay. "It was a calculated decision by my director," he says. Pushpendra explains, "I feel actors tend to mould their performances in order to suit the narrative. For instance, Aashim plays a character called Ansari. Now Ansari only knows about his life and not what is happening with other characters. If he gets to know everything about Jimmy's Shukla ji, he will start acting on the basis of that knowledge. So, what the character doesn't know, why should I tell that to the actor?"

A still from the film

Only Jimmy, Pushpendra reveals, was given the entire script. "Now, Shukla ji had to know what was being cooked behind him," he quips.

This is the third decade for Jimmy in the industry. He started off with Gulzar's Maachis (1996), a poignant tale of the militancy in Punjab after Operation Blue Star and former Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's subsequent assassination. After such an explosive debut, except Mohabbatein (2000), the actor dabbled in a lot of middling rom-coms in the early 2000s like Yeh Zindagi Ka Safar (2001), Dil Vil Pyar Vyar (2002) and Kehtaa hai Dil Baar Baar (2002).

"After working for three to four years, I was done with the Bollywood format of storytelling," he says. "You know, it was all about those songs which involve actors dancing around trees, that sort of stuff. It had become repetitive and I was like 'jaana hain, karna hain, yahi hain jo hain' (I have to go to work, do it, this is what it is)'. But soon I realised I had to break out of this format and do something interesting. Something that lasts, because I knew these songs and dances will soon fade away."

And then you decided to do Haasil (2003)? "Frankly, my need to do more meaningful roles came after Munna Bhai MBBS (2003). All of a sudden everybody started saying that I had turned mad and am refusing lead roles for small supporting ones. But by then I was on a different path. I did the Tanu Weds Manu series and the Saheb, Biwi Aur Gangster films. Now, when I look back at my filmography, I feel pride," he adds.
